WEYMOUTH FIRE CHIEF SEIZED AS 'RAFFLES'

PRINCIPALS IN BOYER CASE

Building on left is Roxbury Courthouse, showing window from which Boyer leaped to escape photographers after his case was dropped. Above, Mrs. Boyer No. 2, and her attorney, Frank G. Montague, through whose advice she declined to testify, thereby clearing herself and Boyer as the case had to be dismissed. Inset is the former Rev. Francis D. Boyer.

'REV.' BOYER FREED AS BIGAMIST

Discharged, He Dashes Down Stairs and Leaps Out of Window

Somebody page Doug Fairbanks.

Tell him about the former Rev. Francis B. Boyer, who literally leaped into renewed fame today.

Doug does acrobatic stunts to get into the pictures; the unfrocked Episcopal clergyman to get out of them.

After a case charging bigamy against him was dismissed by Judge Weston in Roxbury District Court today, Mr. Boyer did these things:

He ran downstairs.

He leaped out of a rear window of Juvenile Court, dropping ten feet.

This was to avoid a battery of newspaper cameramen with black boxes.

In court with Mr. Boyer was Mrs. Lucille Boyer No. 2, formerly Lucille Macomber, Brookline girl, whom he wed in Portland, Me., before his divorce decree made such action legal in the State of Massachusetts. The No. 2 wife was charged with misconduct. Her case was likewise dismissed today.

Reasons for dismissal of both cases were that Mrs. Boyer No. 1 refused to testify against Boyer on the grounds that it might incriminate her. She was the prosecution's only witness. Thus the case fell flat.

It was announced, by Attorney Frank G. Montague, counsel for Mrs. Boyer, that today, in Suffolk Probate Court he will file a petition by the wife No. 2; asking that her marriage to Boyer be annulled. The petition is on the grounds that the marriage was an innocent mistake on her part.

COULDN'T SEE WIFE.

The charges against the pair in court grew out of a visit Mrs. Boyer paid to officials at the Roxbury Courthouse, in an effort to get separate support from Boyer. Admissions she made at that time caused the arrest of both.

Before his precipitate leaving of the courtroom today Boyer asked Attorney Montague if he might speak to Mrs. Boyer No. 2. He said he was sorry, felt badly about it all and wished to do anything he could.

Attorney Montague informed Boyer he thought it best not to do so.

Sleeping on Wife's Ironing Board Cruel, He Says

In Superior Court at Cambridge today Mrs. Sharp was testifying in her divorce action against Andrew Sharp, Newton master plumber, in which she alleges cruelty.

"He came in one night, got down the ironing board, placed it on two chairs, laid down on it with his hat, shoes, rubbers and all of his clothes on and went to sleep," said Mrs. Sharp.

"How does that constitute cruelty?" asked Judge Lawton.

"Why, the woman couldn't use her ironing board, Your Honor," replied counsel for the plaintiff.

TAUSSIG'S BROTHER A SUICIDE

Yonkers Mayor, Defeated November 6, Talked With Bankers About Finances

Mayor Walter M. Taussig, of Yonkers, N. Y., brother of Frank W. Taussig; famous economist and Henry Lee professor at Harvard since 1901, was found dying from a bullet wound in a garage at the rear of his home today.

He is believed to have committed suicide. A revolver was found by his side.

Professor Taussig of Harvard, who came from Cambridge, Mass., yesterday, was waiting at City Hall for his brother's arrival when word of the shooting was conveyed to him. Professor Taussig was speechless and hurried to join his sister-in-law. It could not be learned for what purpose the brothers had planned to meet.

Mayor Taussig had been in consultation yesterday with banking officials about his financial affairs. He was a lifelong Democrat and was defeated for re-election November 6 by Ulrich Weisendanger, Republican, who was beaten by Taussig in the election of 1922.

It was declared by Mrs. Taussig that if her husband had shot himself, it was because of his extreme disappointment over political defeat.

Reputed wealthy, Mayor Taussig was vice president of the American Chain Company and was interested in a large number of industrial enterprises. He was also active in philanthropies of his city.

His brother, at Harvard, has served as chairman of the United States Tariff Commission.

Mayor Taussig was born in St. Louis and later lived at Bridgeport, Conn., where he was active in industrial affairs. He was twice married. His son, Frank, is a recent graduate of Harvard. He has three daughters. His sister is the wife of Alfred Brandeis, a brother of Supreme Court Justice Brandeis.

Taussig entered politics about two years ago, when drafted by the Democrats. He was the only successful Democrat on the ticket. He was president of St. John's Riverside Hospital, where he died. He was high in Masonry.

Mayor Taussig was formerly vice president of the American Chain Company of Bridgeport, having resigned from that position two years ago. He was president of the Challenge Cutlery Company of Bridgeport at the time of his death.

'GLAND BANDITS' OPERATE ON YOUTH

Chicago, Nov. 21. (I.N.S.)—Search was begun here this afternoon for two "gland specialists" who chloroformed Charles Ream, a University of Chicago student, and performed an operation upon him.

Ream woke in South Chicago.

He was taken to a hospital where Dr. Reed Scott said the operation evidently had been performed by some one skilled in surgery.

CAUGHT AS HE ENTERS STORE

Arrest of Official Who Holds Four Jobs Believed to Solve Two Months' Mystery

For two months somebody lifted money from the cash register of N. R. Loud's hardware store at No. 230 Pleasant street, South Weymouth.

Also hammers, saws, wrenches, nails and the like.

Three nights ago Ambrose Boyle, a policeman, was secreted in the store. He held an all-night vigil with no luck.

The next night he did likewise.

Last night he snoozed and dozed and listened to the rats sneak choice tidbits from hammer handles and still no luck. He was about to depart at daybreak when—"Creak-creak-creak" — Jimmy Valentine stuff.

He heard a back window creak and open and in stepped a man.

Ambrose crashed him to the floor. Then took him to police headquarters. There the denouement to the story was startling. Whom did they have under arrest but—

James A. Carley.

Chief engineer of the fire department.

Night watchman at the Weymouth Trust Company.

Janitor at Fogg's Opera House.

Janitor at Fogg's Library.

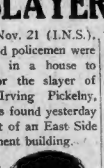
He lives at No. 123 Pleasant street.

A search revealed that Carley carried an assortment of skeleton keys, which he had used to unlock the door leading from the cellar and a pocket flashlight. When asked why he had broken into the store, Carley's only answer according to Boyle was "I don't know."

In Quincy Court where he was charged with larceny he prepared to unveil his "Jekyll and Hyde" existence.

12,000 COPS HUNT SLAYER OF CHILD

New York, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.).—Twelve thousand policemen were engaged today in a house to house hunt for the slayer of four-year-old Irving Pickelny, whose body was found yesterday in the basement of an East Side store and tenement building.



Irving Pickelny.

The lower East Side, where the child lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pickelny, before his disappearance, October 26, had not recovered from the hysteria, which followed the finding of the body. Crowds thronged the streets.

Women wept. Threats of death to the fiend who killed the child were voiced by the men. Traffic was blocked for several squares around both the Pickelny home and the death basement, four blocks away.

THOUSANDS MOURN.

From Bellevue Hospital Chapel today a crude pine box which hid the body of the boy was bore down an aisle formed by thousands of silent sorrowing East Siders.

Scores of police in uniform and plain clothes, mounted and afoot, patrolled the funeral right-of-way. Detectives mingled with the throng, hoping to pick up a chance word which might lead to the arrest of the murderer.

Well dressed merchants shouldered shop and factory girls for a glimpse of the coffin. From Orchard, Grand and Suffolk streets, in the heart of the tenement slums, came hundreds of the boys and girls

QUACK WHO KILLED VET CONFESSES

Arrest of Alleged "Butcher" in Diploma Mill Probe Is Promised Soon

Hartford, Ct., Nov. 21.—One of the 25,000 quacks practicing medicine throughout the United States with degrees obtained from the now famous "diploma mills" being investigated here and in half a dozen other States will be under arrest, charged with manslaughter, today or tomorrow.

He is "Dr." George M. Stucliffe, self-confessed "butcher," who etherized to death a World War veteran suffering a crushed finger.

That man was Albert Hoody. When he lay dead, the victim of three cans of ether, while the quack butcher was still endeavoring to amputate the crushed digit, a girl wife became a widow and a baby boy with golden curls was made fatherless.

Both, with the veteran's mother, gray and bent, appeared before the grand jury investigating her and told of their sorrow.

Sutcliffe has been located in Albany, N. Y., where he fled following the uproar caused when the wholesale butchery of these human sharks came to light.

Before fleeing the State, Sutcliffe made a partial confession to investigators, in which he told of the machinations and corruption of "mill" faculties and State officials who, for bribes, made the path easy for the butcher "doctors."

Sutcliffe is believed to have killed five or six other patients in the "butcher shop" he operated as a doctor's

HAYES REBUKED; JAIL FOR LIQUOR RUNNER

Salem, Nov. 21.—William J. Sullivan, arrested yesterday at West Beach, Beverly Farms, for rum-running, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction and fined $500 by Judge Sears. He appealed and was held in $1,000.

A suggestion from Chief of Police ("Shooting Jack") Hayes of Beverly that the sentence be a fine and forfeiture of liquor brought this reply from Judge Sears:

"I am not going to be a party to any such agreement. They keep on running liquor in here by the boatload and small fines are not going to stop it. What does a small fine amount to, anyway, to one of these fellows? I will impose the maximum penalty."

CLEMENCY REFUSED BERGDOLL IF HE RETURNS TO COUNTRY

Washington, Nov. 21.—Promises that Grover Bergdoll will return to this country from Germany if the Washington government complies with certain stipulated conditions, said to amount to virtual immunity for him, have been made to government officials by attorneys and others speaking for the Bergdoll family. These offers the government has declined. Officials declare they can enter no compromise, but must insist upon a free exercise of their powers in the event the draft evader is captured or returned to American jurisdiction.

BANDITS GET $50 IN HOLDUP OF CONCORD, N. H., JEWELER

Concord, N. H., Nov. 21.—Two bandits walked into the jewelry store of M. Bowers in North Main street, a stone's throw from the State House, held up the proprietor and escaped with about $50 in cash.

One of the men held up Bowers with a revolver, forcing him to hand over the money. No attempt was made to rifle the showcases or safe and the bandits hurriedly retreated.

Later, after a chase along the Manchester highway by a motorcycle officer two men were arrested who are said by the police to have admitted the robbery. They said they were Thomas Harrison of Chicago and Thomas McQueen of Plainfield, N. J.

LANDLORD TRAPPED IN CLOSET; ROOM-SEEKER HELD AS THIEF

John Russi, nineteen, of New York City, in Municipal Court today, was held for the Grand Jury on a charge of assault with intent to rob, upon Jacob Jakofsky, forty-three, in the latter's lodging house, No. 163 Court street.

It is charged Russi and a pal, George Rogers, sought a room at the Jakofsky place, asking for one with a closet. As Jakofsky showed them the closet he claims they poked him into it, assaulting him.

Then his wife arrived on the scene and the two based the would-be roomers to the street. Then Patrolman James Cullerton and 150 others joined in the chase. Russi was caught at Hawkins street. He was held in $2,500 bail. His pal escaped.

QUACK DOCTOR WHO KILLED WAR VETERAN CONFESSES IN PROBE

SELF-ADMITTED 'BUTCHER' GIVES INSIDE STORY OF 'DIPLOMA DOCTORS'

office in Unionville, a suburb of Hartford.

3 CANS OF ETHER

Here is how he killed poor Hoody, as told by I. B. Cook, who accompanied the patient to Sutcliffe's office from the Unionville plant of the Hart Manufacturing Company, where Hoody's finger had been crushed.

"The doctor had Hoody stretched out on an operating table," said Cook. "He bound Hoody to the table with strips of gauze and tied his legs and made a mask of gauze to cover his face. He had told Hoody that he would have to cut off the middle finger of his right hand it was so badly crushed.

"Hoody said he wanted to be asleep when he d'd it. 'Dr.' Sutcliffe found that he didn't have enough ether on hand so he went to a nearby drug store and bought three more cans.

SUTCLIFFE FOUND

"When he returned he handed me a can and told me how to pour it on the mask covering Hoody's face. I poured it on slowly.

"As soon as one can was empty I poured on another at Sutcliffe's direction.

"I emptied three cans I am sure and had about half emptied the fourth or fifth can when 'Dr.' Sutcliffe discovered that Hoody was dead. He had been cutting off the finger meanwhile. I was so excited I don't recall what else happened."

Sutcliffe loomed today as the central figure in the inquiry because of his recent flight following a dramatic confession made to Harry T. Brundidge, investigator for the St. Louis Star, who exposed the fake medical schools in Missouri and later repeated to Governor Templeton.

6 PATIENTS DIED

He had been practicing in Unionville about a year. Six of his patients are reported to have died in five months. The Hoody death certificate was signed by Dr. E. M. Ripley, coroner of Farmington who gave the cause "Suffocation from anaesthetic fumes." Dr. Ripley is reported to have sold out his practice to Sutcliffe.

The case of Sutcliffe, a native of London, has special interest in Boston and Massachusetts in that he started his medical career there. Since the State authorities of Connecticut started war on fake medicos he tried unsuccessfully to win the sanction of the Massachusetts board to practice medicine in that state.

He has a wife and four children. His son, Pat Sutcliffe, was an aviator in the Royal Air Force. His other son, George Maud Sutcliffe, was recently married to a society belle in St. Louis.

WOMEN QUACKS

The influence of "Mystery women" is gradually creeping to the surface as the probe goes deeper. There are several women doctors under investigation started by correspondence which was seized at the headquarters of St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons and Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery.

Sutcliffe was a photographer when he obtained his "Medical diploma" from St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons. He admitted to Governor Templeton that he never studied medicine. He said he was serious in his intent, but that officials of the school recently raided by the St. Louis authorities, caused him to take the "short cut." The words "Physician and Surgeon," are painted large in the office which he recently deserted in Unionville.

BEGINS CONFESSION

"Back in 1918 when I was dubious as to the future," he confessed, "I was interested by a friend, a man named Black, who was a photographer like myself, in the study of medicine. I decided to prepare for a career as a doctor. I was introduced to Dr. Waldo Briggs, dean of the St. Louis College of physicians and surgeons.

"I told Briggs I wanted to be a doctor. My intentions were honest. I had no idea of trying a short cut, and was prepared to do four years. Briggs enrolled me as a freshman. I told him I had no high school certificate, and he said he would fix that up for me.

"Sometime later, W. P. Sachs, who has confessed that he was a member of the diploma mill ring, called at the school and I arranged to purchase a high school certificate. I paid him five dollars for it. It was like the one published in "The Star," which was given to Brundidge under the name of Thompson.

"It was not long after I began my studies that I wrote a letter for Briggs and he liked it so well that he gave me a job as his secretary. He told me I could go through school for nothing if I would handle his books and write his letters and that arrangement was carried out.

"I soon learned that Briggs was operating a two-year school at best. The freshmen and sophomores were in one class; the juniors and seniors in the other. There were no other classes.

FALSIFIES RECORDS

"Not long afterwards I began to see what was going on in the school. Briggs was a smiling diplomaan. He had me falsify records time after time, to show that students had attended studies for several years when, as a matter of fact, they had never attended half a dozen classes.

"A prospective student would call at the school and hand Briggs $250 or so, and tell him he wanted to get a diploma in a hurry. Briggs would tell him that he never did business that way. But he would put the money in his pocket and have me enroll the man as a senior.

"There was no set price for anything. Briggs would take what ever he could get. I have seen him sell diplomas for $150 and I have seen him get $500 for one. The system was rotten, as were the lectures. I was having a hard time of it, too, as I worked at night for the Standard Oil Company at Wood River, as the first aid worker.

"I slipped out a diploma for a friend of mine, R. V. Rapp, who formerly lived in Greenbay, Wis. I put bum signatures on it and sold it to him for $50. He said he wanted to take it to England. Some time later he squealed because the signatures were no good; he took it up with Briggs, who reprimanded me, but sold Rapp another diploma for $150.

"There are any number of names of graduates in the classes of 1918, 1919 and 1920, that were put on the records and whose pictures were inserted in the class groups long after the date of graduation. I started at Briggs School in 1918, but Briggs gave me a diploma showing that I graduated in 1918, and gave me another when I graduated, after two years of work, in 1920.

GOT EXAMINATION

"Credits of any kind were acceptable at the school.

"After I graduated, I went out to Colorado, I worked like a Trojan, prepared myself on a quiz course, and passed the State board and was licensed. I settled at Ray, Colo. Sometime afterwards I heard from Adcox. He said he was bringing a crowd of graduates out and wanted to get them through the board.

"I met him by appointment in Denver. He explained that the men were all a bunch of 'dumbbells' and he paid me $50 a head for each of the twenty with the understanding that I would drill them in the answers to 250 questions.

"That was two weeks before the examination was to be held. Adcox told me that the 250 questions contained all of the seventy-five or eighty questions that would be asked by the board and informed me that if they memorized the answers they would get licenses.

"I worked with them all day, every day for two weeks and certainly earned the thousand dollars Adcox paid me. He got about $500 cash from the men. I don't know how many of them passed the examinations, for I went on back to Ray."

CHECK UP IN HUB

Among the names of students checked up by Health Commissioner Stanley H. Osborn of Connecticut in Boston and Cambridge were the following:

Samuel Lerner, who failed in his junior year.

Anthony R. Campo, who failed in junior examination.

M. J. Pippi, expelled in 1921 after failing in seven or eight subjects.

BACK BAY MAN HELD IN $1,000 THEFT

Clarence J. Horn, twenty-eight years old, No. 41 Bickerstaff street, Back Bay, was arrested on indictment warrants charging him with larceny and conspiracy to commit larceny of $1,000 from Arthur Briggs of Lynn, after representing himself to be a bond salesman.

The alleged theft took place in November, 1922. Briggs alleges Horn represented himself to be a bond salesman and agreed to buy a bond of the International Talc Company of Delaware, for him. He gave him the $1,000, Briggs said, but failed to receive the bond.

POISON SUSPECTED IN MAN'S DEATH

Medical Examiner Leary performed an autopsy on the body of William H. Finn, twenty-two years old, of No. 25 Union avenue, Jamaica Plain, to determine the cause of his death. Finn was found dead in bed by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Finn, who told the police that both she and her husband had been nauseated when they awoke.

The police fear that Finn died of some kind of poisoning and they are attempting to trace the various foods they ate the day before.

Long Flight for 40 Planes

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 21.—Forty airplanes will undertake a spectacular flight after the conclusion of manoeuvres with the United States battle fleet in Caribbean waters next April.

Plans call for the navy aircraft to fly from Calebra Bay to the islands of the West Indies, and, after reaching Miami, Fla., to split into three groups for an aerial tour of virtually every important city in the United States.

BARE ELECTION PLOT OF WETS IN 'DRY CAPITAL OF WORLD'

Westerville, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Westerville, "the dry capital of the world," is searching for the "instigators of a wet plot."

In prominent places in Westerville have been erected ballot boxes and prominently displayed over each are written invitations to everyone to vote on repeal or modification of prohibition, and enforcement or repeal of "blue laws."

Anti-saloon league men declare the affair is a deliberate attempt to show it appear that Westerville is voting wet, and have advised the people to ignore the ballots entirely. They say that Westerville is the only small town to which they have been brought.

ALL MEN ARE TALKERS MOSTLY DULL, SAYS CO-EDS

Chicago, Nov. 21.—University of Chicago co-eds, meeting to discuss men, dances, parties and proper introductions, decided that "all men are talkers; some of them serious and dull; some of them frothy and dull, and others trivial and dull."

A movie with the right man is more desirable than grand opera with a "sap," said the girls. They expressed themselves in favor of three dates a week, preferably theatre dates. Two shows were regarded as better than one theatre-and-supper date.

The girl most popular with men is one who can adapt herself to a companion and a condition, whatever they may be, the meeting concluded.

GIRL IN MAN'S LAP IN FATAL AUTO CRASH

Testimony at the trial of the operators of both automobiles in the crash at the Worcester turnpike in Weston at midnight, Nov. 5, which resulted in the death of three girls and one man, revealed that a girl occupant of the car which is alleged to have caused the fatal crash was sitting in the lap of a male companion at the time of the accident.

George D. McDonald, of No. 64 Clarendon street, Back Bay, driver of a coupe type of automobile, which is alleged to have crashed into the rear end of the death car, and Michael J. O'Brien, of No. 82 Cosgrove street, Roslindale, operator of the death car, were on trial before Judge Hannon in Waltham District Court at a session which lasted all day, and was finally continued until Thursday.

Each of the operators was charged with manslaughter in three counts, in connection with the death of three of the victims immediately after the accident. The fourth victim died the next morning.

The manslaughter charges against McDonald were dismissed by Judge Hannon for want of probable cause. Charges against him for reckless driving and going away from the scene of an accident without making his identity known will be heard when the hearing is resumed.

O'Brien is charged, in addition to the three counts of manslaughter, with reckless driving. His defence will be heard Thursday.

STUDENT OBJECTS TO 'HELL' IN COLLEGE CRY

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 21.—A pious youth appeared before Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of Georgia University recently, said Dr. Soule today, and asked that the president use his authority to have the historic football slogan of the University changed from "Give 'em Hell, Georgia," to "Chastise them, Georgia." The profane yell grated on sensitive ears and was highly improper in the presence of ladies, said the student. "My reaction was distinctly unfavorable," said Dr. Soule. "If it came to that we would have to put petticoats on the team."

SCHERMANN SUFFERS NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

New York, Nov. 21. — Rafael Schermann, Polish psycho-graphologist, today suffered a nervous breakdown, attributed to overwork on criminal and mystery cases. Mr. Schermann's lecture engagements have been cancelled.

ELEVATOR KILLS WORCESTER MAN

His neck was broken. His body was found wedged between the floor and the elevator platform.

U.S. World Flight to Take Thirty Days, Army Men Believe

Washington, Nov. 21. — Army Air Service officials expressed the belief today that the globe encircling flight to be attempted during the Spring can be accomplished in thirty days if favorable weather conditions prevail.

The passage across southern Asia probably will present the greatest difficulties to the fliers.

The aeroplanes to be used will be smaller than the T-2, which recently made the first non-stop transcontinental flight. They will be capable of 125 miles an hour.

COOLIDGE GIVEN LEGION PLANS

Washington, Nov. 21.—At the request of President Coolidge, officials of the American Legion have sent to the White House, a comprehensive statement outlining the organization's legislative program for the coming session of Congress.

The statement embodies the legislative program for the coming session of Congress.

The statement embodies the legislative proposals endorsed by the legion at its last national convention, including a bonus bill, a measure for an automatic universal conscription of manpower and industry in time of war; an authorization for retirement pay for emergency army officers, centralization of all veterans' legislation in a single committee in both Senate and House, and numerous amendments of the present law governing the administration of veterans' affairs generally.

to whom Irving had been playfellow.

The cortege wound through narrow streets near the gas house district, beneath roaring elevated trains, down past the Pickelny boy's home in the Ghetto, and out to Mount Hebron Cemetery at Flushing.

POLICE HAVE CLEW.

Patrolmen guarded the parents' home all night. Today 75 more patrolmen and a dozen mounted police were added to the guard in the vicinity of the Pickelny home.

Police announced they were working on a clue to the identity of the slayer. The child, it is believed, was approached by a bearded man of between forty and forty-five years old and lured, either under promises of candy or a penny, to the basement where he was killed.

This man, police say, was of stocky build, about five feet nine inches tall. He is of a type low in depravity, though perhaps not in mentality.

BOWERY THEATRE DAMAGED BY FIRE

New York, Nov. 21.—The Thalia Theatre, once the Bowery Theatre, oldest playhouse in the city, today was damaged by fire. The theatre, erected before the Civil War, was the scene of Buffalo Bill's first show in the East. For a dime in the old days, it gave an evening with Della Fox, Lillian Russell, Maggie Mitchell, Lottie Gibson, Weber & Fields, The Russell Brothers, David Warfield, Harrigan & Hart and other favorites. It is now used as an Italian vaudeville theatre.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company

THE UNITED STATES Supreme Court decides that Judge Mayer of the Federal Court may sentence Comptroller Craig, of New York city, to 60 days in jail because Mr. Craig, a public servant, criticized Judge Mayer, another public servant. The accuracy of Mr. Craig's criticism is not discussed. The highest court sustains the right of a judge to act as judge and jury, in a case affecting his own dignity. That is the law, since the court says so, but if it is a good law, it is not good democracy.

JUDGES MAY say they could not uphold the court's dignity without such power. Ancient rulers, similarly, would have said they could not uphold their dignity without the instant power of life and death. That which is really respectable needs no especial protection.

A BAKER, in his chop, has this sign. "In smiling we use 14 muscles, in frowning 64 muscles. Smile and save your muscles."

That sounds reasonable. But more real work has been done by frowning men than by chronic smilers. The smile is mere relaxation. The frown means action, concentration. You do not think of Newton, Archimedes, Shakespeare, Beethoven, Michael Angelo, five of the world's seven greatest men, as smiling. When you think, you frown.

VEGETARIANS and meat packers are far apart, but this interests both. Germany, lacking meat, puts all animals in the zoo on a vegetarian diet. All the nice oatmeal they could eat was given to lions, tigers, leopards, wolves. But they all howled, before and after taking. They all stopped producing children, grew thin and have not been able to grow their usual, thick coats of Winter fur. They did not have the proteid from milk, eggs and butter with which some enthusiasts deceive themselves as to the value of a vegetable diet.

VEGETABLES only will do for the contemplative cow, slow moving elephant, or the Egyptian slowly rowing on the Nile.

But vegetables alone will not do for animals or men obliged to fight, physically or mentally, for a living.

The Japanese did well on rice, until they went to fight Russians. Fighting and long, violent marches called for meat, they had to have it.

WHEN FARMERS in the Northwest complain of hard times they are told: "You must reconcile yourselves to an economical readjustment. Canada can produce wheat more cheaply than you can. You must recognize facts."

But it's something else, when railroads pile up five million surplus tons of coal at the head of the lakes, and find themselves facing loss by the competition of lignite.

THEY DON'T accept "economical readjustment" based on the fact that the Dakotas and Eastern Montana possess six hundred thousand million tons of lignite coal, more fuel underground, barring oil, than all the rest of the United States, more than France, England and Germany combined.

RAILROADS simply raise the freight rate on lignite coal by fifty-two per cent., to make sure that lignite, a home product of the Northwest, shall not compete with coal hauled two thousand miles from the East at profitable rates for railroads. That might interest President Coolidge. Who was it, for instance, that ordered a 52 per

DICKERMAN'S WIFE LOSES HEART BALM

Mrs. Dickerman was awarded a verdict of several thousand dollars in heart balm from her husband's parent, whom she accused of alienating his affections. The verdict was set aside and her appeal has been denied.

ROBERT DICKERMAN — MRS. EUGENIE DICKERMAN

"SONNY" MAY HAVE TIE DISSOLVED

The youthful clip to Eugenie Young Dickerman's gray locks are today belied by the sorow in her heart.

The lady who lost her boy husband has now lost the opportunity to make his Ma pay for that loss.

Eugenie married "Boy Robert" Dickerman in gay Paree these three or four years back. Bobby tired of his elderly spouse. Eugenie therefore charged little Bobby's Ma with alienating sonny's affections and sued for $100,000. The case had a sensational ending in Eugenie's being awarded $32,500 by a jury.

Almost immediately the verdict was set aside and a new trial ordered. It ended with the judge taking the case from the jury and telling Eugenie she would get not even a centime. Eugenie appealed. Now she learns the judge's decision has been sustained.

In gay Paree she captured boy Robert against a Montmarte background. She held him while the wine flowed and the symbals sounded. Her years were discounted in the fervor of her love. But back in America Bobby saw the gray in the hair, the age in her eyes and it was all over.

Today he plans to replace Eugenie with a Brookline beauty. He will seek dissolution of the marriage in the courts then approach the altar with a girl his age. And looking on may be Eugenie with years in her eyes but youth to her locks.

GIRL, 14, TELLS OF ATTACK AT DUSK IN FIELD

Kitty Phoebe Dotten, fourteen-year-old Winchester High School pupil, told in East Cambridge court today how she was attacked within sight of her home on the early evening of October 9 last.

She told it as she sat facing a man in the prisoner's cage held as her assailant, also under indictment for an attack on a twelve-year-old girl in Saugus in September. He is William P. App of Woburn Highlands.

"I met him on Highland avenue, Winchester, as I was coming from a music lesson. It was growing dusk. My cousin, Kenneth Dotten, had just left me, accompanying me part way home. This man asked me if I knew where a family named Blanchard lived. I didn't. Suddenly he grabbed my hand, then put a hand over my mouth. 'Don't cry out or I'll shoot you,' he said. He then pulled me through Appalachian road to a field. In a clump of bushes he threw me to the ground. It was then almost dark. He tore off my clothes. I was afraid to scream. I was sure he would kill me."

She broke down and wept.

App calmly took notes as the girl told her story.

App's wife sat nearby.

Today the mother of the Dotten girl wept freely as her daughter talked in a low voice. The trial is before a jury. App was brought to court from the East Cambridge jail. The Dottens live in Alden street, Winchester. The father is a prominent mechanical engineer.

HOLIDAY RUM CARGO ARRIVES

Five Liquor Ships Unload Big Supply Off Coast of New Jersey

Highlands, N. J., Nov. 21 (A.P.)—Jersey coast rum-runners took more than 20 loads from five liquor carriers about 10 miles off the Highlands today in the first extensive smuggling operation attempted in months.

With the exception of one load, which was dumped into the sea when Warrant Officer Tilton of the Sandy Hook Coast Guards gave chase, all the liquor was reported safely ashore. At least half of it is believed to have been landed by runners from this vicinity.

One of the largest schooners in the rum fleet departed early today, evidently having disposed of her cargo during the night. Her place in the "row," a nine "corner hit," was taken soon after her departure by a smaller schooner that appeared to be loaded to the plimsal mark.

The night's success apparently encouraged local runners, for today a number of them are observed tuning up their engines and filling fuel tanks. The weather continued ideal for smuggling.

The liquor ships, the smugglers say, have all sorts of liquors aboard with cargoes largely made up of whiskey and champagne.

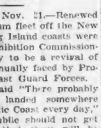
Washington, Nov. 21.—Renewed activities of a rum fleet off the New Jersey and Long Island coasts were declared by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes today to be a revival of a problem continually faced by Prohibition and Coast Guard Forces.

Mr. Haynes said "There probably is some liquor landed somewhere along the Atlantic Coast every day," and that the public should not get the impression that there will be available "some genuine Scotch" for holiday consumption.

HOLD HOME MARKET CLUB ELECTION

In his valedictory address to the Home Market Club, at the annual meeting, at No. 99 Bedford street, today, Robert F. Herrick, the retiring president, said:

"The need of protection is more vital than ever. Several of the nations that participated in the recent world's catastrophe are either bankrupt or on the verge of bankruptcy. In the exigency of the times we should strive to aid the disabled peoples of these nations, but in doing so we should not reduce ourselves to their level. If we dissipate our wealth by purchasing pauper-made foreign commodities we will destroy American production."



Franklin W. Hobbs

E. Kent Swift, treasurer of the Whitin Machine Works, Whitinsville, was unanimously elected president to succeed Mr. Herrick. Franklin W. Hobbs, president of the Arlington Mills, was elected a member of the executive committee; Henry H. Hill of the John L. Whiting-J. Adams Company, vice-president; Charles F. Boughton, treasurer of the Wamsutta Mills, New Bedford, director. All the other officers were re-elected.

MILLIONAIRE RESORT NOW SEEKS LOAN

Must Go Out and Borrow $150,000; Plan Drive on Wealthy Delinquents

Newport, Nov. 21.—It is to laugh!

Newport is broke.

Playground for millionaires, landscape gettting for mansions, society's capital is seeking to make a touch for $150,000.

The city where monkeys made dinners famous and money has made monkeys of women and men is out of funds. It blames its millionaires for not paying their taxes.

So this is Newport! A resort of money kings and jewel queens, where darkening financial storm clouds have broken into financial storm. Lightning has struck the city treasury.

Who or what will have first opportunity to loan Newport all this money will be decided tomorrow at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen. The town's Representative Council, secondary governing body, has unanimously voted in favor of seeking the badly needed loan.

BLAME TAX-DODGERS.

Non-payment of taxes by Summer colonists has assumed alarming proportions. Many have simply overlooked payment of taxes, it is said. Tradesmen of the Queen Resort say they have noted this habit before. They say wealthy Newporters have even been known to sail across the pond, neglecting to balance the season's account. They name the disease millionaire-amnesia.

Still other Newporters—and their name is legion—claim the assessors are away off on calculations—but always in favor of the city. One, John Aspegren, paid his taxes and then sued the city to recover $4,806. He claims the valuation of his mansion was inflated like a Zeppelin. His suit was joined by others—among them those of the late James J. Van Alen and the estate of Ogden Goelet, begun before Mr. Van Alen's death last Spring. The Aspegren suit is still in abeyance.

If the suit goes against the city it is believed suits will multiply.

WILL FORCE PAYMENTS.

Many cottagers have a simpler plan. They just don't pay or sue.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen, plans will be gone into to force payment against the Social Register. Action by them will mean a financial war for Newport.

Making up of the budget shows a shortage of $100,000 between the tax to be raised and coming annual expenses.

Among heavy taxpayers is Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, with $14,000 yearly. Others pay similar sums. Delinquency of a few here, which would make up all in other towns, spills the beans in Newport.

THEATRES MAY DRIVE BIG GRID GAME AWAY

New York, Nov. 21.—So much indignation has been expressed by army and navy officials over the increase of prices by theatres next Saturday night, the day on which the Army and Navy meet at the Polo Grounds in their annual football battle, that it is believed the game will not be played in this city again. Prices for orchestra seats in twenty-four theatres, an army canvas revealed has been boosted from 10 cents to $2, two $5.50 places increasing to $7.70. The investigation was instigated by Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson of Annapolis.

SWITZERLAND 'BLACKLISTED' BY SOVIET RUSSIAN CHIEFS

Moscow, Nov. 21. (A.P.)—Switzerland has been placed permanently on the black list by the Russian Soviet government in consequence of the acquittal at Lausanne of Maurice Conradi, charged with the assassination of the Soviet envoy Vorovsky, Foreign Minister Tchitcherin declared today.

Switzerland, he said, will pay dearly for the crime for which the entire Swiss Bourgeoisie was responsible. Russia would have no official dealings with the country and would not trade with her, preferring to lose money rather than do so, and no Russian would visit Switzerland, he said.

Conradi's acquittal will work against the personal safety of other Bolshevik leaders traveling abroad, it is declared.

American Photographer Tells of Thrills as He Chased Big Blimp in an Airplane

By CARLTON CHANNELL
American Staff Photographer

My orders were to get an airplane photograph of the giant dirigible, Shenandoah. I got the picture, but at one stage of the game I would have sold my chances of life for a cancelled postage stamp.

We were 4,000 feet high and travelling eighty miles an hour when the chance of a lifetime came. With one leg and three-quarters of my body over the fusilage of the airplane and only one arm to keep me from falling into space, I snapped the shutter of my camera.

It came about in this manner. Just before noon, while I was standing in Mayor Curley's office, waiting to get a birthday photograph of the Mayor, Mike the almost perfect office boy employed by the American, appeared without his hat or coat and gasped between breaths.

Lieut. MacAuley

"Here, Chan, take this. The old boss says it's important and you gotta hurry."

I opened the envelope. The orders were brief:

"Get to the Jeffries Point Air Port in East Boston as quick as you can. Lieutenant Vernon MacAuley of the 101st Aero Squadron, M. N. G., will be waiting for you with an airplane. Get a photograph of the Shenandoah if you have to chase it to Hartford."

That was clear enough. All I had to do was to photograph the Shenandoah. Quite simple. The only hitch was that the Shenandoah had left Boston travelling fifty miles an hour before I arrived at the airport.

AVIATOR WAITING.

Lieutenant MacAuley was waiting, his motor tuned up and purring impatiently. We didn't wait for introductions. The aviator handed me a leather helmet and told me to "get in and fasten that safety belt. I guess we can catch it." I did and we did.

Lieutenant MacAuley knew the route of the Shenandoah, and he knew Massachusetts. The giant dirigible was perhaps twenty-five or thirty miles ahead of us.

We took to the air in the face of a high wind that was blowing across Boston Harbor, and pointed our plane toward Malden with the deafening roar of our motor in our ears.

Watertown slipped beneath us within a few minutes. Waltham glided by in another few minutes. We followed the tiny white ribbon beneath that indicated a highway.

MOTOR WARMS UP

All the time, our motor was getting warmer, and Lieutenant MacAuley gave it more fuel. Somewhere between Malden and Waltham we thought we sighted the Shenandoah. We were making from eighty-five to ninety miles an hour then, but the Lieutenant shoved the speed up another notch.

Sazerville and Framingham Center were mere blurs on the earth which spread like a map beneath us. There we were sure we saw the dirigible. There was no doubt about it—we could see the sun reflected from its silvery sides.

When we passed White's Corner, we were within about eight miles of the Shenandoah, the Lieutenant told me. A few minutes more and we were abreast of the Pride of the American Naval Air Fleet.

"Get your camera ready if you want the picture," Lieutenant MacAuley shouted above the roar of his motor.

I hoisted the camera to the side of the fusilage of our plane, but I couldn't make the picture from my position in the seat.

I unfastened my safety belt and stood up. The wind almost swept me from the plane. Grasping a wire support, I put one leg over the side of the fusilage and leaned over. It was about all I could do to hang on to the plane. We were then going eighty miles an hour.

With my free hand I hoisted my camera into position and focused it. The Shenandoah drifted with us about a thousand feet to our left. When our plane swerved sharply to the left I felt my right foot lifted from the floor of the fusilage.

BIDS AIRSHIP FAREWELL.

There was a tremendous jerk on the arm with which I clung to the support. For a moment I thought it was all over, but the flowers and music—provided they could find the grease spot on the earth that represented an erstwhile photographer. Then I settled into my former position with a jerk.

The chance for the big picture was before me. The Shenandoah was almost alongside and a little beneath, with the town of Hudson and its tiny lakes forming the background. Another lense adjustment. I snapped the shutter and crawled back into my seat. Our plane made an Immelman turn and headed back to Boston with a farewell wave to the Shenandoah.

Lieutenant MacAuley did a good job. And I don't hesitate to say that I did, too. Here is the picture.

TODAY

cent, raise in lignite freight rates, that the Northwest might be compelled to use Eastern coal? What would be said if farmers demanded such convenient rate discrimination for their products?

BY THE WAY, what a fortune for the man who discovers a way to carry electric power long distances, without excessive loss on the wires. When that discovery comes, the 600 billion tons of lignite turned into electricity at the mouth of the mines in the Northwest will be distributed throughout the country, at a small fraction of the power cost, when coal is mined and then burned at a distance."

The great lignite deposits in Western Texas will also play their part in the game, when that distribution comes.

ATLANTIC CITY'S Mayor says ladies may bathe in the ocean, wihout stockings, a new ruling. He's a wise Mayor. Bare arms and bare legs, once taken for granted, interest nobody, particularly. If women were prudent, however, they would not, for a short Summer's swim, destroy illusions built up throughout centuries. Modesty, mystery, morality are three useful words in woman's chief job, which, according to Schopenhauer, is to entrap each man into a hard and fast bargain to support some one woman all her life.

THE ADMINISTRATION, it is said, will officially suggest to European nations that they pay their United States war debts. That would be a considerable improvement on our flabby, sentimental talk about crossing the ocean and attending to the business of people that do not know enough to stop fighting and robbing.

What do you think Europeans would say to us, if we were in their debt ten billions of dollars; a debt of honor, money lent in the desperation of war with defeat and ruin threatening?

WINS $4 BY MIDNIGHT PLUNGE

Ruby Cohen, former newsboy, started a red hot argument over his cakes at a Dover street restaurant.

He bet four bucks he'd jump off the Dover street bridge at midnight.

Somebody covered him.

Ruby inhaled the cakes, and, followed by 200 of his stalwart cohorts, made way to the Dover street bridge.

It was low tide.

In B V D's Ruby mounted the bridge rail.

Little Sammy Bloom shivered.

Ruby jumped.

He came ashore as the cops arrived, somebody having telephoned.

They found Ruby dressing as he chuckled four wet $1 bills.

"I win," said Ruby.

"Both ways," said the cops, making their exit. "You got the dough and a bath, too."

Man in a Dream Cuts His Throat With Razor

Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 21.—This story is recorded on the blotter at police headquarters:

Edwin Carriere, sleeping in his home at No. 285 Social street, had a dream.

He dreamed he was committing suicide. He took a razor in his right hand. He drew the keen blade across his throat. He felt the blood.

Just then Carriere awoke. One of his children was standing beside his bed crying. A razor was in Carriere's hand. He had cut his throat in his sleep.

The razor with which Carriere had done the slashing had been lying on a table near his bed when he went to sleep.

Carriere, who is fifty years old, was taken in the police ambulance to Woonsocket Hospital. He will recover.

LIED ABOUT LOVE BABY' WHILE IN HYPNOTIC DAZE

New York, Nov. 21.—Hypnotism was responsible for her extraordinary lies on the witness stand, Mrs. Gertrude Groll, 2205 Park avenue, testified before Supreme Court Justice Mullen in connection with the habeas corpus proceedings brought by Mrs. Gertrude Stapler against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Louis Stapler, widow of a former district attorney, for custody of her daughter, Helen, seven.

Mrs. Groll, who last week was star witness for the younger Mrs. Stapler and who identified that her own cousin and not Mrs. Stapler was the mother of the "love" baby, named Billy, verged on collapse as she tearfully related her story.

"My real name is Mrs. Groll, not Jeanette Lawrence," she said, "I am happily married and have a child, and I want to make a clean breast of this mess and forget it.

"Mrs. Stapler came to me several weeks ago, hypnotized me and then pushed me into taking the witness stand and lying in her favor. I know nothing about Baby Billy."

FORBES' SISTER ADMITS HE WAS IN U. S. PRISON

Mrs. Judkins

Mrs. Marie Forbes Judkins admitted today that the American's expose of the military record of her brother, Colonel Charles K. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans' Bureau, is correct in its account of his desertion from the army, his capture, court-martial and sentence.

Mrs. Judkins is head nurse of the Vocational Training School at No. 1916 Commonwealth avenue. While her brother was head of the national ex-service men's bureau, she was made chief nurse of all New England, but was demoted when Dr. Crossman became chief of the New England district.

DENIES DETAILS ONLY.

With Colonel Forbes' mother and her husband, Harry C. Judkins, Mrs. Judkins is living at No. 132 Colonial road, Brighton. She has absented herself from her Veterans' Bureau duties since her brother's past was made known.

"My brother was sentenced for deserting," she said, "but he did not serve four years as the papers say. He served a much shorter term.

"Moreover, he did not desert a Boston wife. He has been twice married, that is true. But he did not marry a Boston girl and he did not leave a wife in Boston.

Mrs. Judkins emphasized the word "Boston," and repeated her denial. She insisted on denying several of the details of each charge, but could not deny the charges themselves.

DEFENDED BY MOTHER.

"I certainly intend to defend our family name," she added. "The time will come when people will see there is no smirch on our record. As for Colonel Forbes' relations with the late President Harding, my brother himself will have to talk of that."

Colonel Forbes' aged mother, who had just arrived from Hopkinton, said:

"I am Colonel Forbes' mother, and I want to say my son never deserted a wife in Boston."

She refused to answer any more questions. She said that Colonel Forbes would vindicate himself in time.

Only Part of Waste Made Public, Says Gen. O'Ryan

Washington, Nov. 21.—With the public hearings virtually ended counsel for the Senate Veterans' Committee began today the task of shaping up for the consideration of the committeemen the vast volume of information gathered in the investigation of the activities of the veterans' bureau.

John F. O'Ryan, general counsel, told the committee that what has been presented publicly "constitutes but a fragment of what has been developed, both in relation to the neglect of the disabled and to corruption and waste in the bureau."

There probably will be several public sessions for the admission to the record of reports and other data, and it may be that Mrs. Katherine Mortimer, of Philadelphia, will be heard at one of these in response to her request that she be given a public hearing for discussion of the testimony of her husband.

SEARS-ROEBUCK HAS FARM RESEARCH PLAN

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The establishment of a Sears-Roebuck agricultural research foundation to determine essential facts relating to the farming industry, was announced today by Julius Rosenwald, president of the company.

He said the foundation would be headed by "the most capable men to be found in the agricultural research field."

"As business men," Mr. Rosenwald said, "we feel under a direct obligation to do everything we can to improve the farmer's condition. A careful survey has revealed to us that where the farmer needs help is in marketing his products.

LINER MAJESTIC IN AFTER STORMY TRIP

New York, Nov. 21.—Nearly a day late, the White Star liner Majestic docked today, after a six-day battle with gales and strong head seas. At times the liner was able to make only 300 miles a day instead of the usual run of 600 miles.

Beaten by Tenant

ARTHUR GOULET.

TECH GRADUATE USES HAMMER ON LANDLORD

With his head battered, Arthur Goulet was found moaning with pain on a blood-soaked bed in his home, No. 9 Dover street, Cambridge.

James Dance, mechanical engineer, Technology graduate and tenant in Goulet's house, was arrested charged with assaulting his landlord with a hammer.

A story of a fight to a finish, with Goulet swinging a club and his tenant wielding a hammer, was unfolded to the police by Dance, and later by Goulet. Dance asserts he struck in self-defence. He was not injured.

VICTIM IN HOSPITAL.

Goulet was removed to Cambridge Relief Hospital, where twelve stitches were taken in his head. He is under observation for possible internal injuries.

Goulet occupies a third-floor room, connected by a stairway with Dance's second floor apartment. Goulet ordered Dance to move because Mrs. Goulet was to return from a hospital, he said.

Dance refused to move because his wife, Mrs. Pearl Dance, is about to become a mother. Returning home late in the evening, Dance found that Goulet had removed the lace curtains, which were Goulet's property.

Dance was furious. He ran upstairs. According to Goulet, Dance found him asleep and attacked him with a machinist's hammer. Goulet defended himself with a policeman's "billy." The battle waged until Mrs. Dance got the two men to separate. Goulet collapsed.

DANCE ADMITS ATTACK.

Later Patrolman Jeremiah Reardon, passing the house, heard groans and investigated, finding Goulet on a blood-soaked bed. Dance was arrested. At Station 4 he confessed to wielding the blood-stained hammer found by the bedside.

In the Third District Court, East Cambridge, Dance was charged with assault with intent to kill and the case was continued until November 30.

Dance and his wife today moved to his parents' residence, No. 380 Broadway, Cambridge.

CHILD LABOR FOES FRAME NEW ATTACK

Washington, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—Foes of child labor have agreed upon the text of a constitutional amendment which will be submitted to the new Congress, it was announced here today following a conference in which representatives of 25 organizations participated under the chairmanship of Samuel Gompers. Abolition of child labor by a constitutional amendment is made necessary by the Supreme Court having held recently child labor law unconstitutional.

GRANGE ASKS PROBE OF GROWING IDIOCY

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—The National Grange, in annual convention here today, voted to conduct an investigation into the "growing menace of feeble-mindedness and idiocy in the United States" with a view to recommending Federal and State legislation as a remedy. The resolution was introduced by Jesse Newcom, master of the Indiana Grange.

'3 OF 5' L CARS TO SO. BOSTON CONDEMNED

Residents of South Boston who patronize the five-cent surface cars between the South Station and City Point declare that they get three kinds of service for their nickel—terrible, horrible and miserable.

Here are some of the incidents brought against the line:

Antequated cars that have leaky roofs.

Flat wheels.

Mangy upholstery.

So little power that a loaded four-horse dray can pass them on any little upgrade.

DON'T EVEN STOP.

Cars running so infrequently, despite the fact that there is supposed to be four-minute service on the line, that by the time they reach P street, in-bound, they are so packed with stifled humanity that the motorman doesn't even stop to pick up passengers beyond that point.

Cars running so slowly that it takes twenty minutes to come in from P street to the South Station, a distance that could be walked in twenty-five minutes, and could be made in ten minutes by a modern electric car.

GETS THEIR "GOAT."

The patrons of the Broadway line declare that their feeling of injury over the poor service is aggravated by the fact that on the Rowe's Wharf-Summer street-City Point line, on which they claim that the patronage is only a fraction of that on the Broadway line, there big semi-convertible cars run almost on the heels of each other. One user of the Broadway line declared today that at night cars will go out over the Summer street line by twos and threes, some of them without a passenger, while big crowds are waiting for a Broadway car. When a Broadway car finally flatwheels into view it is stormed by the crowd. When it finally staggers out with its body and vestibules jammed with passengers and others riding on the steps and fenders as many more are left standing in the street. Then to see two or three big cars with hardly any passengers pull out over the Summer street line is almost an incitement to riot to the weary crowds.

$100,000 GIFT RISES FROM OLD DISPUTE

Chicago, Nov. 21.—A friendly argument twenty years ago was responsible for William S. Mason, Evanston banker, giving Northwestern University $100,000 to endow a chair in history. Announcement of the gift has been made by Dean James Alton James, designated by the donor as the first professor to hold the new chair.

The argument was between Mr. Mason and a friend, who contended Benjamin Franklin was a great scientist, the banker maintaining he was not. Later Mr. Mason studied Franklin's life and claims to have assembled the largest private collection of Franklin relics.

COLLEGE GIRLS RUN BIG STORE A DAY

Columbus, O., Nov. 21.—Pretty co-eds at Ohio State University are going to sell hairpins and ribbons, while the men are to become floor walkers, elevator starters and managers for a day. Students in the Ohio State University department of commerce are going to run one of Columbus' large department stores, Dec. 1, the management having announced they will turn the entire store over to the students in order that they may gain actual experience in store management.

LAWRENCE MILLS CLOSE; 2,100 IDLE

Lawrence, Nov. 21.—The Everett Mills, employing 2,100, will shut down tonight until December 3. The mills have been running on a schedule of three days in a fortnight for some time. They produce ginghams, for which there has been a decreasing demand for the past two months.

Debutantes Prominent in Tableau at Jordan Hall, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

BOSTON'S future debutantes and bankers will be much to the fore in the tableaux to be given a week from today at Jordan Hall.

Some of the youthful "four hundreds" who will portray living pictures from Stevenson's "Child's Garden of Verses" include Barbara Bremer, Anna Clark, Betsy Jacques, Margaret Stockton, Eileen Bramwell, Richard Sears, Jack Saltonstall, James Wigglesworth and John Lyman.

There will be an afternoon and evening performance of these tableaux, which are in aid of the James Marsh Jackson League, recently known as the Tide-Over League. In the evening some of the debutantes and older folk will take part. Miss Polly Webster has charge of a group of buds who are to act as ushers.

A notable group are sponsoring the affair, the long list of patronesses including Mrs. Reginald Boardman (Carrie Munn) of Marlboro street and Manchester-by-the-Sea. She is a sister of Mrs Charles Minot Amory (Gladys Munn), the Boardmans and the Amorys generally spending the mid-Winter at Palm Beach together.

HAD Miss Edith Woodward of New York and Newport made her bow to society this season, as was originally planned, there would have been quite a little entertaining in her honor here.

Edith Woodward

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Woodward (Elsie Cryder) and a neice of Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames (Edith Cryder) of Boston. Last Summer Miss Woodward visited on the North Shore, where everyone acclaimed her a charming girl and a thorough good sport. She is to spend the coming year travelling and studying abroad.

APROPOS of the bud festivities, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Thayer are giving a reception this afternoon at their Beacon street home to present their daughter, Miss Louise Thayer.

Tomorrow afternoon the Rev and Mrs. John S. Penman are giving a similar affair at their Cambridge home on Brattle street for Miss Martha Penman, better known to her intimates as "Patty."

MRS. REGINALD BOARDMAN

Mrs. Boardman (Carrie Munn) of Marlboro street and Manchester-by-the-Sea, is one of the sponsors for the tableaux to be given next week in aid of the James Marsh Jackson League.

TALL and dark-haired Mrs. N. Penrose Hallowell is expected to return to the Readville home from her sojourn abroad probably today.

Hannah Hallowell

Mrs. Hallowell and Mrs. Richard Russell are prime movers for this year's Junior Supper Dances, which proved such a tremendous success when they were given last year.

On the first of the month Mr. and Mrs. Hallowell (Margaret Bowditch) are giving a tea for their daughter, Miss Hannah Hallowell, one of the most prominent and popular buds of the season.

ANNA LACY WEDS IN BROOKLINE

Prominent among the pre-Thanksgiving weddings was that today of Miss Anna M. Lacy, daughter of John H. Lacy of Brookline and Frank E. Harrington, also of Brookline, at St. Mary's of the Assumption Church, Brookline. The Rev. Fr. Thomas Frawley performed the marriage ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret E. Lacy of Brookline as maid of honor. Justin H. Dempsey, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. The bride's cousin, Master John Lacy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Lacy of Glen road, was the train bearer and the flower girl was Miss Maria Marta Harrington, a niece of the bridegroom.

The ushers were Charles E. Lacy and John H. Lacy Jr., brothers of the bride; George J. Lacy, cousin of the bride; J. Roland McCann and George P. McGinnis of Brookline and John M. Cunningham of this city, classmate of the bridegroom at Georgetown University '18.

RUTH ROLAND TO WED AUTO MAGNATE

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—Ruth Roland, dare-devil heroine of the serial movie thrillers, will be married to R. C. "Cliff" Durant, automobile magnate, during the Christmas holidays.

The couple met a year ago on the Beverly speedway, where Durant was trying out a new racing car and Miss Roland was being filmed in racing scenes of her then latest thriller. Durant saved the actress from a bad smashup and from then on, according to all reports, the roads have been smooth and without curves.

Both have been married before. Durant's former wife is now the wife of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, American World War ace.

3 TIMES JIM FLOPS; NOW HE'S IN JAIL

Jim Bogan is East Boston's cleverest boilermaker. He is thirty-eight years old.

His best friend is Walter Brazzell, a fruit peddler.

Monday morning in East Boston court Jim's name was called. He stood up, swayed, then fell in a heap. "Rearrest him," ordered Judge Byrnes. A cop did so.

Jim went into the jug, but along comes Walter with more bail.

Yesterday morning Jim's name was again called in East Boston court. Jim stood up, swayed, then fell over in a heap.

"Rearrest him again," ordered the judge.

A cop did. More bail from Walter.

Today Jim was in court with three charges of drunkenness against him. At his own request he got thirty days in Charles Street Jail.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH THIS YOUTH?

What are you going to do with Calder Latham?

He's nine years old.

Has made himself mascot to Boston Elevated system.

Calder Latham

Rides all day, rides all night.

When he doesn't have a time he "crashes the gate."

Whizzes past dozing ticket clipper as Yale boy dodges Harvard ends.

His dad is George C. Latham of No. 686 Tremont street, South End. His business card reads: "Dealing of drums, bells and xylophones." George has evidently been smanny a drum, also played a few odleys on Calder's pants. For, after picking up the young tourist at 9 o'clock this morning, a newspaperman delegated a reporter to escort Calder home.

The sight of Drummer Pa was enough for Calder. He disappeared like paper in a wind. Only to show up at the newspaper office an hour later. He's still here. What is to be done with him?

For Pa is away a week at times demonstrating to ailing drums, distant xylophones and sour bells at his Ma works.

WHALE ON HER BOW HOLDS UP NAVY BOAT

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—When officers of the Navy transport Arethusa found difficultay in keeping up speed off Lower California, they discovered they were carrying a whale on the bow. It was necessary to back the ship to get rid of the encumbrance, Lieutenant-Commander L. W. Johnson, ship's surgeon, reported when the Argonne arrived from New York. The ship evidently had rammed the whale and broken its tail.

BONAR LAW'S WILL ON SINGLE SHEET

According to the Daily Mail the executors are his sister and Lord Beaverbrook, the latter is to receive all the former premier's papers.

Philip Magliozzi and Philip Ditirro, of No. 103 Medford street, Somerville, charged with attacking fifteen-year-old Mabel Prendable of Charlestown last September, were each sentenced to an indefinite term at Concord Reformatory by Judge Whittemore in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court today. WILLETT PLANT SOLD FOR SONG, HE DECLARES

In his $15,000,000 suit against Robert F. Herrick, Robert Winsor and others in the Superior Court at Dedham today, George F. Willett testified to the manner in which the several defendants' attitude toward him changed after he had made over control of the Willett-Sears companies to them, and how they disposed of the companies.

It was Willett's eighth day on the stand and his testimony was the most dramatic that he has yet given. He testified that companies on which the Willett-Sears concern had spent large sums were disposed of for the merest fractions of their value. He also said he had learned Robert F. Herrick was preparing to buy two valuable plants for companies in which Herrick was the chief figure.

"I met S. H. Fessenden of the F. S. Moseley Company two weeks after I had signed the agreement giving Winsor, Herrick and Fessenden stock control in our companies, in order to secure loans, and complained to him of the changed attitude of the committee toward me.

REFERRED TO HERRICK.

"I asked Fessenden why I should be absolutely ignored in matters relating to our business. He replied that Herrick did not trust me and said that if Herrick was to have anything to do with the management of the companies that I must have nothing to do with tem, not even to talk with the office employes.

He wanted me to conform to Herrick's wishes in this matter and I protested that it was unfair. Fessenden said:

"'Well, that is all there is to it.' He said it would be best for me in the end to accede.

"At another time Fessenden said the committee was liquidating the Roxbury Carpet Company and the Woonsocket Machine & Press Co. Herrick, he said, would be glad to help out in this matter, as he was identified with two companies that could use the plants. One of these Herrick companies was the Sace-Lowell company, a competitor of the Woonsocket company, and the other was the A. J. Tower Company, whose plant was just across the street from the Roxbury Carpet Mills.

GREATLY EXCITED.

"I declared that I would not tolerate this, as Willett-Sears' whole plan of development hinged on the Roxbury Carpet Company.

"Fessenden then declared that we had wrecked the American Felt Company and the Daniel Green Felt Shoe Company and it was the business of the committee to clean up the mess. I became greatly excited and Fessenden refused to talk to me. He ridiculed our plans for workmen's welfare and said that manufacturing businesses must be run for profits alone. I told him that the welfare plans were developed with his knowledge and that he was a party to them. I told him that his present attitude was inexcusable and impossible to understand.

"I later learned tat one of our companies, the Luxmoor Company, had been sold for $7,500. I protested to Fessenden that the company had earned $15,000 a year and that it was worth from $50,000 to $70,000. Later I learned that the parties who bought it were prepared to pay $40,000 for it. When itold Fessenden he said he would look into it.

"A few weeks later I met Herrick and Fessenden with my counsel, C. F. Choate, Jr. Choate told them that their position toward the Willett-Sears companies was one of trusteeship, and that we had a right to be consulted. Herrick told Choate he was entirely wrong. 'We own the American Felt Company, the Daniel Green Felt Shoe Company,' he said, 'and we will run them as we see fit. If Willett ever redeems them he will get them in whatever shape we place them.'

"I tried to speak, but Choate stepped me and I went out into the hall and wept."

AUSTRIA'S DEFICIT CUT TWO-THIRDS

Vienna, Nov. 21.—The government's proposed budget for 1924 shows estimated expenses of 9,182,000,000,000 crowns, with a deficit of 837,000,000,000 crowns, one-third of last year's deficit and due entirely to the railroads. The government plans to reduce the deficit to 147,000,000,000 in compliance with the estimates of the League of Nations' financial delegation. This is taken to foreshadow a balanced budget in 1925.

SWEETHEART DYING, GIRL TRIES SUICIDE

Springfield, Nov. 22.—"My sweetheart's going to die so life holds nothing for me." Pretty Alma Beauvie penned the note then turned on the gas in her bedroom. She was found dying by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Chisholm with whom she lived at No. 17 Church street, Cohoes. The girl is in Mercy Hospital. The name of her "sweetheart" is not known. She is seventeen years old.

CRAIG SENTENCE CAUSES DEATH OF ASSISTANT

New York, Nov. 21.—Deputy Comptroller Henry Smith died today at his home. It was said the immediate cause of his death was shock over the decision of the United States Supreme Court that his superior, Comptroller Charles L. Craig, must go to jail for contempt of court.

When word of the Supreme Court decision came to Smith in his office Monday, he was overcome and was attended by two physicians. He was taken to his home and begged that no one inform Craig of the effect the decision had had upon him.

Comptroller Craig has announced that he will not fight further the order of Judge Julius M. Mayer sending him to jail for sixty days for contempt of court. He is ready to serve his sentence, following the decision of the United States Supreme Court sustaining the order of Judge Mayer.

Craig says his going to jail will not be for any wrong doing, but for his protest against the conduct of the receivership of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit. In his announcement Mr. Craig declares that his being sent to jail shows that the judges are now allowed too much power—virtually the power of suppressing proper criticism and a free press.

Athens—The Conservative party, headed by George Rhallys, today announced that, in view of the conditions under which forthcoming elections are to be held, the party could not participate in them.

CITY REGISTRATION LAGS FAR BELOW LAST YEAR

Boston is running far behind in registration for the election to be held Dec. 11. Last year there were 220,615 registered voters on the list, this year will not reach over 202,000.

Registration closes at 10 o'clock tonight. There is apparently little or no interest in the coming city council fight. There will be but seven candidates with a possible eight, for the three vacant places in the city council.

The supplementary registration shows that only 4,127 men and 1,915 women have been added to the list since last August.

MODERN GIRLS' FEET BIGGER; WAIST LINE INCREASES, TOO

Columbus, Nov. 21.—The feet of the modern college girl are steadily increasing in size, according to Miss Lydia Clark, head of the women's department of physical education at Ohio State University.

Miss Clark claims that modern clothes and the great interest shown by the modern co-ed in outdoor activities are causes.

Figures from Vassar, Smith and Leland Stanford show that the average weight of the college woman has increased from 123.5 pounds to 125.8 and that the waistline has increased on an average of 1.3 inches.

HOOKUP IS FOR 4 TUBES

Receiver May Be Built for Two or Three Tubes Also

The Boston American publishes today for the first time the complete and authentic hookup of the new super-neutrodyne, the set which has amased radio engineers by its simplicity and power.

The hookup shown today is for four tubes, a radio frequency amplifier, detectors and two audio-frequency amplifiers. If desired, the set may be built with only two tubes, using just the radio-frequency amplifier and the detector. This combination will be found much superior to the ordinary regenerative detector and one stage amplifier.

Three rheostats are used, one for the radio-frequency tube, one for the detector and one for the two audio-frequency amplifier tubes.

The antenna and ground are connected to the primary of one of the radio-frequency amplifying coils which were described yesterday, and which will be described more in detail in a subsequent issue.

Th secondary of this coupler or amplifying transformer is tuned by a variable condenser (C-1). This is a condenser of about .00027 mfd. maximum capacity. Any good low-loss condenser may be used.

The output of the first tube is coupled to the detector by means of a second radio-frequency transformer, thy secondary of which is tuned by another variable condenser (C-3), which should be exactly the same kind of condenser as that used for C-1. These two condensers are the two tuning controls.

The rest of the receiver is like any standard detector and two-stage amplifier. Jacks are provided for the dejector, the first and second stages. The first two jacks are ordinary two-circuit jacks, while the third jack (J-3) is a filament control jack.

If it is desired to simplify the circuit, the jacks may be omitted.

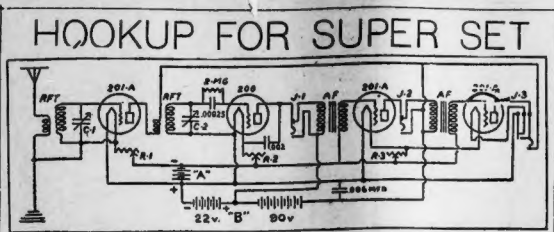
A .002 mfd. fixed condenser is shunt around the first jack and the B battery as a by-pass phone condenser, and a .006 fixed condenser is connected across the 90-volt B battery as another by-pass.

One of the attractive features of this set is that there are no critical adjustments, and any standard make of parts may be used.

Tomorrow the American will publish complete instructions on the making of the radio-frequency couplers, which must be made at home, as they cannot be purchased. The winding of these couplers is quite simple, however, and no difficulty will be experienced by anyone at all familiar with electrical wiring.

Later on the American will print a simplified diagram for those who cannot read the usual symbols. There will also be a panel lay-out, with dimensions clearly marked, and sketches of the back panel lay-out.

HOOKUP FOR SUPER SET



WIRING DIAGRAM FOR THE NEW RECEIVER

A complete diagram for the wiring of the new super-neutrodyne receiver is shown above. The circuit is arranged for four tubes, but may be built using only the radio-frequency amplifier and the detector, making two tubes. Three rheostats are used, the last tube being turned off when not in use by means of a filament control jack.

PACKERS FIGHT U. S. EXPOSE OF RECORDS

Chicago, oNv. 22.—Court fight to test the authority of government auditors to have full access to books of packing companies is indicated by the statement of L. F. Swift, president of Swift & Co., that his concern will resist the attempt of the Secretary of Agriculture to investigate company affairs.

"Such attempted regulation of the entire business can but result in conflict and the confusion of the industry," Mr. Swift said. "It will probably be necessary to let the courts decide this issue.

"I still believe the Constitution gives a little privacy to citizens, and we want to find out," said Thomas Creigh, general counsel for the Cudahy Packing Company, "if there is nothing in the packing and stockholders act which will permit an official to walk into your office, sit down at a desk and tell you how to run your business."

Creigh indicated that the concern he represents will refuse to comply with the request of Secretary Wallace.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Swift & Co., Wilson & Co. and the Cudahy Packing Company will be given until November 23 by Secretary Wallace to open their books and records to auditors of the Department of Agriculture before action is taken to invoke penalties prescribed by the packers and stockyards act.

Negotiations for examination of the packers' records have been conducted for a year, the secretary said in announcing his decision, but the company officials have insisted that such a study was not authorized by the law and would be a violation of their rights. The information is sought to determine the scope and methods of the business engaged in by the companies.

PETAIN IN RUHR FOR GERMAN CRISIS

Paris, Nov. 21 (A.P.).—Lord Crewe, British Ambassador, received instructions from London today regarding the note the Allies are to send to Germany. It was then announced the Council of Ambassadors would meet this afternoon.

Paris, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.).—Marshal Petain, one of France's foremost military experts, has gone to Dusseldorf to confer with General Degoutte and to inspect the Franco-Belgian Army of Occupation in the Ruhr and Rhineland.

He will examine the preparations made "to meet any German eventuality" it is announced.

"Pertinax", political editor of the Echo De Paris, expressed the opinion today that the delay of the Allied Ambassadors' Council in sending its note to Berlin is increasing the defiance of the Germans and is making more remote the possibility of a favorable reply from Chancellor Stresemann.

France drafted two notes demanding reestablishment of allied military control and an explanation as to why the former Crown-Prince had been allowed to return.

The British took exception to the threat of additional penalties.

WOULD LIKE 6 CHILDREN GLORIA SWANSON SAYS

New York, Nov. 21.—Gloria Swanson, film actress, was overjoyed with the arrival in this city of her recently adopted little son, Joseph, from the West.

Little Joseph has come to be playmate and brother to little Gloria, two-year-old daughter of the actress and her former husband, Herbert E. Somborn, who the actress divorced September 19, this year.

Gloria Swanson

Joseph was adopted from a children's home in Los Angeles. The actress said:

"It is wonderful to have two such dear children. I should like to have six of them if I could. People, when they heard that I had intentions of adopting a child, said that it was because I was disappointed in little Gloria.

"Gloria is the healthiest and most lovable baby in the world. I have adopted little Joseph because I love children so much that one was not enough."

WIDESPREAD DISTRESS SHOWN IN APPEALS FOR XMAS BASKETS

Pitiful appeals for food are beginning to pour into the office of the American Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund.

These appeals from impoverished families, clearly prove that the American's Fund will be called upon to feed thousand of persons in Greater Boston, who will be without substantial Christmas dinners unless assisted.

Never has there been more requests for Christmas dinners than during the present season, although the Basket Fund has been in existence ten years. This is due largely to illness and unemployment.

SCORES OF APPEALS.

Scores of letters appealing for food, each telling a sad story of destitution, have been received by the Christmas Fund Editor from weary mothers and in some instances from her undernourished children.

Every letter contains the hope that the family will have a good dinner on Christmas Day. "Please remember us at Christmas," is the concluding sentence of nearly all these letters.

With Christmas only five weeks away, the appeals for help are increasing in number each day. Some of these letters, especially those written by the children, are worded in such a manner as to bring tears to the most hardened. They contain stories of vain searches for employment and despair due to illness.

NONE TO GO HUNGRY.

The American will do its utmost to prevent any child in Metropolitan Boston from going hungry on Christmas Day and hopes that its readers who are blessed with a generous supply of this world's goods will contribute as much and as quickly as they can.

The American's Fund will be limited only by the amount of money recived, and, as this Fund has always spent one hundred cents of every dollar taken in, exclusively for food, we believe the generous hearted people of Boston and vicinity will get solidly behind us in putting this great undertaking across.

5,000 FAMILIES AIDED.

We wish to repeat that 5,000 families were aided last year by this Fund. We estimate that 87,000 persons were fed last season with 82,000 pounds of food.

These figures speak for themselves. If you have not decided how you are going to bring good cheer to a needy family this season, why not let the American's Fund be the medium through which your generosity shall find expression?

PATHETIC APPEALS.

Some of the pathetic appeals for assistance already received by us follow:

From a widow in Somerville came the following:

"I have been sick for months and cannot work. I have been widowed for five years and have three children. Unless your kind hearts open to us the poor little things will have little cause for happiness on that day of days. With your kind help I can make them happy with a good dinner. I never could afford toys. I will thank you for helping to make my little ones happy."

A little girl in Brighton wrote:

"I am a little girl eleven years old. My mother has been dead since the flu of 1918. I am the oldest of four children. My father finds it awfully hard to keep us all. Won't you please help us with a basket and when I grow up I won't forget the American Fund."

WIDOW, 79, ASKS FOOD.

An aged widow in Roxbury penned this note:

"Will you please remember me at Christmas! I am not able to do much work as I am eighty-nine years old and have neuritis in my hands. I will be very thankful for a box of food."

From a young mother in Charlestown this appeal came:

"My husband cannot find work and has been out of work for over two month. I have a baby fifteen months old and I expect another soon. If you will help us we can be happy on the the day for happiness."

A Cambridge mother wrote:

"My husband disappeared two years ago and I find it very hard to get along. I work out, by the day, and have a four-year-old boy. Last Winter when my child was ill I was obliged to get help from the city, so you can see that there is a continual struggle. Your aid will be appreciated."

ROXBURY CHILD'S PLEA.

From a little girl in Roxbury came this missive:

"I am the oldest of five children. My father has been out of work and sick, and has just come home from the hospital. We will not have any Christmas unless you help us. Please send a basket and I will never forget the Christmas Basket Fund."

A worried father in south Boston wrote:

"My wife is dead and this leaves me with full care of six children. The oldest is thirteen. I make very small pay and it is very hard to exist. I would ask aid of the Board of Overseers but I am afraid they would take the children away. Please don't forget my children on Christmas. I am praying that you will send a Basket for them."

Majestic Theatre Benefits Add $606.41 to Xmas Fund

The helping hand Christmas basket fund of the American has been swelled to the extent of $606.41 as a result of the first two night's performances of "Dew Drop Inn" at the Majestic Theatre.

Monday night's proceeds of the performance, plus the sale of radio tickets and flowers, amounted to $881.55 while last night's netted $214.86 with which to feed needy kiddies at Christmas.

Last night's audience thoroughly enjoyed James Barton's unusually clever dancing and mirth-provoking stunts, while carrying out his duties as porter. His dog helps him wonderfully in putting across some of his best stuff.

The stay of "Dew Drop Inn" in Boston is limited to two weeks and everyone should see it.

Many charming young women aided the fund materially by selling souvenirs and flowers during the acts. Their efforts were directed by Anna Griffin Killion.

ACTRESS, PRISONER AND HIS TRAPPER

On top, is Barbara La Marr; in centre, Herman L. Roth, Los Angeles attorney, indicted for attempted blackmail; at bottom, Arthur H. Sawyer, employer of the actress. Facsimile of telegram is an agreement by Roth not to file a fake divorce suit against the actress. It is addressed to the president of the First National Pictures, and followed the alleged threat to file the suit unless Miss La Marr's employers settled for $20,000. Roth was arrested after Sawyer is alleged to have paid him $400 in marked bills. B. Deely, estranged husband of the actress, was supposed to have charged her with infidelity, and the suit was allegedly used as a club over her employers.

NAMED STAR AND EIGHT 'OTHER MEN'

Roth Asked $20,000 to Stop Fake Divorce Suit Against Barbara La Marr

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21 (Universal Service).—Herman L. Roth, Hollywood attorney, was indicted by the Los Angeles County grand jury on the charge of attempted extortion of $20,000 from Barbara La Marr, prominent screen actress.

The indictment charges a felony and was returned as a sequel to the arrest last Thursday, after he allegedly accepted $400 in marked currency handed him by Arthur H Sawyer, the actress' employer.

Roth faces ten years in the penitentiary if convicted. The attorney was permitted to remain at liberty on his bail of $5,000, furnished following his arrest.

AIMED AT NEILAN.

Roth's indictment came after a day filled with surprise at revelations of his alleged activities as the "Spider of Hollywood."

Roth plotted to induce Blanche Sweet to file a suit for annulment of her marriage to Marshall Neilan, the authorities declare. The district attorney's office holds the evidence, it is said, in the form of a drawn-up complaint against Neilan, and which was seized in the lawyer's office.

Miss Sweet denied very emphatically she ever had consulted Roth or any other attorney relative to filing a divorce complaint. Her husband just as emphatically joined in the denial.

Questioned, Roth said his "partner in New York" forwarded the complaint to Hollywood

Said Miss Sweet today:

"Mr. Neilan and I are living together very happily."

And Neilan said:

"It goes without saying that the allegations, as written into the complaint found in Roth's office and to the effect that Mrs. Neilan is a 'kidnaper' bride, are entirely false."

Miss Sweet said Roth had drawn up the complaint and then had tried to entice her either to sign, or at least, to discuss filing it. She asserted Roth "pestered" her over the telephone "for months," on the pretext of wanting to discuss "contracts." She admits she finally went to his office, but that Roth was very indefinite in his conversation as to contracts.

EX-HUSBAND WAS BLIND.

The purported Sweet-Neilan annulment complaint asserts Miss Sweet married Neilan in New York, June 16, 1922, and that immediately afterward he had deserted her. Neilan today said the records would show that the marriage was performed in Chicago, June 9, 1922.

As Miss La Marr has little or no first hand knowledge of the alleged facts in the plot to bedraggle her character by means of an assertedly spurious divorce complaint, it is not regarded as likely that she will appear before the Grand Jury.

The Deely complaint, it is charged, was prepared by Roth with the specific intention of collecting from the screen vampire de luxe, through her employers, the $20,000. The stalking horse for the attorney in his purported plot was N. Bernard Deely, a former husband of the actress, and a client of Roth.

NAMED 8 CORESPONDENTS.

However, it has been proved to the satisfaction of the district attorney's office Deely retained the attorney merely to clear up some of the expressed doubts regarding the legality of his divorce from the star. It was decided, in this connection, it is said, merely to secure a decree upon the ground of desertion, as the best plan to straighten out the entire matter.

Here, it is alleged, Roth saw his opportunity and instead of preparing a complaint with the stock of allegations, fabricated one in which Miss La Marr was charged with infidelity and in which not less than eight corespondents were named. Some of these corespondents named by Roth are men of decided prominence in the film colony.

DANCER INVOLVED.

The allegedly fabricated complaint was held over the actress' employers as a club, the inference being social and professional ruin would be the actress' lot were it filed.

Another activity of Roth which is being investigated by the authorities concerns a divorce suit brought by Oliva Ann Alcorn, Hollywood professional dancer, against Louis H. Sherer, motion picture actor.

In the suit, non-support was charged and the plaintiff stated she had been a resident of Los Angeles the required year before filing Quotes by the district attorney's office the dancer admitted she had been a resident less than a year but she said, Roth had assured her that "that was all right."

GIRL FIGHTS TO LIVE JUST ONE WEEK

HELEN HAMILTON

Suffering from heart rupture, this dying girl is fighting in a Camden, N. J., hospital to live just another week so that she may enjoy her thirteenth birthday. She has been slowly dying for a year, and physicians say her death is near.

VET OFFERS BLOOD TO SAVE GIRL

But Helen Hamilton, Dying of Broken Heart, Hopes Only to Live for Birthday

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—Death has no terrors for thirteen-year-old Helen Hamilton of Camden, N. J. Returning to consciousness for a time today she begged her mother to stop praying that she may live

"You are so big and strong God is sure to hear your prayers, and I don't want to stay here any more," the pain-stricken child told her mother, who had promised that her future prayers should ask for Helen's relief from suffering.

The little girl, dying of a ruptured heart, has been bedridden for nine months

She and her mother are staying with a friend, Mrs. May Schock, where Helen, her arms around a golden haired doll she calls Lucy after her mother, lingers from hour to hour.

Howard M. Kennedy, an overseas veteran, visited Mrs. Hamilton today and told her he would willingly give a quart of blood. The nature of the child's illness makes blood transfusion valueless, it was explained to Kennedy.

Dr. William Kain, who has been attending the child, gives her at the most only a few weeks more to live. Every few hours some new gift is received from people interested in the youngster, who a year ago was going to school and paying not as vigorously, but as happily as other children of her age.

Hour by hour she lies unmoving on her bed, displaying a courage unequaled, perhaps, by her half-brother, Leo Corfield who died on French battlefields.

AUTHORESS BLOOD TO MAY SHARE IN WILL

Mary E. Wilkins Cut Off With $1, Her Husband Leaving $110,000 to Chauffeur

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 22.—Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, famous author of New England tales has a fighting chance to share in her late husband's fortune.

Justice Kirkpatrick today set aside the will of Dr Charles M Freeman which cut off his wife with $1 and left $110,000 to his chauffeur Harry Mohring. The court held that Dr Freeman had only known his chauffeur six months when he made the will that he was a chronic alcoholic and suffered from a diseased mind; and that he was of insufficient mental capacity to dispose of his estate.

The verdict followed action instituted by the authoress last March. At the hearing it was revealed that the couple had been separated a year previous to the physician's sudden death. Also that he made his home with his chauffeur and the latter's wife and children in the upper apartment of the garage on the physician's estate at Milltown N J

Involved in the court fight were the physician's four sisters of Keansburg, Monmouth county N J.

Dr Freeman spent six weeks at one time in a New Jersey asylum for the insane. He married the famous authoress in 1902. She was born in Brattleboro, Vt., but lived in Randolph when she became acquainted with the doctor. Their marriage was a surprise in the literary world.

'JUNGLE LOVER' AND CITY WIFE ARE PARTED

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Nov. 21.—(U.S.) — Diametrically opposed ideals resulted in a private contract of separation between former Governor Chase S. Osborn and Mrs. Osborn.

Mr. Osborn announced that he had made a property settlement on Mrs. Osborn and their children.

"There really is nothing in our domestic affairs that legitimately concerns the public," said Mr. Osborn.

"I have yielded to Mrs. Osborn's desire to experiment in the direction of more free self-determination. To this end there has been executed a private contract of separation.

"I have assigned to Her more than half of all we possessed. I have ceded the remainder with the children and relatives and friends and the public until I am financially a poor man. But it is as I would have it be and I am happy.

"Mrs. Osborn is a fine and refined woman. I am a good deal of a barbarian. She likes and adores civilization. I have lived and explored and studied and written in the wild places of the earth and still do.

"In addition, I am an exacting disciplinarian, and, no doubt, often unreasonable.

"Mrs. Osborn has reared a fine family. The children are all past 20 years of age, and are playing good parts in life.

"I still consider it my duty and pleasure to do anything for Mrs. Osborn and the children that they will permit. I shall continue to live in the woods and Mrs. Osborn will live the urban life that suits her.

"There cannot be a divorce. There are no grounds for one and there is no desire for one on the part of either of us.

RUNAWAY HORSE HITS AUTOS IN SCHOOL ST.

An elderly woman narrowly escaped injury and two automobiles were damaged when a horse attached to the express wagon of the Munroe & Arnold-Merritt Express Co., bolted today at Tremont and School streets and dashed down School street.

The wagon was dragged up on the sidewalk after the shafts had smashed into a taxi and sideswiped another car. The Mayor's automobile, standing in front of City Hall, was grazed.

Traffic Officer James Steele pulled a woman from under the hoofs of the horse as it started on its mad career.

The driver of the wagon, E. Eastabrook of Dorsen street, Charlestown, was finally able to bring the horse to a standstill, but was cut about the hands.

WALTON MOVES OUT OF CAPITOL OFFICE

Oklahoma City, Nov. 21.—Ex-Governor J. C. Walton, once proclaimed the "Moses of the Southwest," as he was ushered into office by the world's greatest backwoods, quietly moved out of the gubernatorial suite at the State Capitol today. Just as quietly, Governor M. E. Trapp moved in. The new Governor is expected to send a message to the legislature this week urging immediate passage of anti-K. K. K. legislation.

The ex-Governor today appealed to Federal Court for an injunction to prevent execution of the impeachment court's judgment.

TWO WOONSOCKET FIREMEN INJURED

Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 21.—Louis Archambault and E. L. DeSaulniers, firemen attached to Hose No. 1 of the local fire department are in the hospital today suffering from injuries received when a three-alarm fire on Harris Avenue destroyed a 3-family house and threatened the district. Three families were driven from their homes. The house was owned by Paul Fontaine and occupied one floor. The fire was apparently under control after small loss had been done, when suddenly flames that had been raging in the walls burst through the roof. Two more alarms were rung, bringing a large amount of apparatus to save adjoining property.

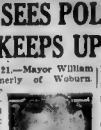
$35,000,000 POWER PROJECT PLANNED

Baltimore, Nov. 21.—A gigantic power project to harness the Youghiogheny river waters in Garrett County, Maryland, at a cost of $35,000,000 is under consideration by the Maryland Public Service Commission. The power would be sold for distribution throughout Western Pennsylvania.

The plan contemplates the development of approximately 100,000 horsepower.

DEVER SEES POLITICAL END, BUT KEEPS UP LIQUOR DRIVE

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Mayor William E. Dever, formerly of Woburn, Mass., told the Chicago Bar Association that he intended to enforce the law regardless of the effect of such a course on his political career. He expressed the opinion that his campaign against liquor law violators here during the last two months has ruined him politically.



Mayor Dever.

He declared that even if strict enforcement of the law were submitted to a referendum of the people, as has been suggested, and they opposed it, he would still enforce the laws. "The people have no right to make a law-breaker out of me or any other man," he asserted.

MERMAIDS GO BAREFOOTED AT ATLANTIC CITY AGAIN

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 21.—Stockingless nymphs will return to the Atlantic City strand next Summer and one-piece bathing suits may be worn by both men and women, according to Mayor Bader, who promises an ordinance will be introduced to allow this bathing attire.

Always insisting upon strictest propriety in beach garb, the announcement by the Mayor that the fair sex might omit stockings has caused a stir. The stocking edict in past seasons never failed to bring a storm of protest, some maids going so far as to submit to arrest for violation of ordinances, which went to the extreme of forbidding "rolled down" stockings.

MOTHER DENOUNCES CHARGE THAT SHE KILLED CHILD

Catskill, N. Y., Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—Demanding the right to appear before the Grand Jury investigating the murder of her 3-year-old son, Mrs. Rose Rothenberg today denounced "anyone who charges that she was responsible for the crime."

"It is an outrage for anyone to insinuate that I, a mother, could kill my own child. That is what they are trying to do here."

Witnesses told of seeing the mother on the roadway, near where her boy was murdered.

ONE OF THEIR OWN LYNCHED, AS SLAYER, BY NEGROES

Tunica, Miss., Nov. 21.—Robbery and murder of Eliza Goodrich, an aged negress, who lived on a plantation near Commerce, Miss., were revealed today with reports that Ed Hardy, negro, was lynched by a mob of negroes.

Hardy had escaped into Kansas and was found by Hugh Fontaine, the plantation manager of the plantation where the negress lived. Fontaine brought her prisoner to Commerce and left him with a negro guard. Later Fontaine was told the mob had taken Hardy to the river.

Other negroes said Hardy had confessed the crime and "jumped into the river."

"Broke every blamed one," said Angus, who is in St. John's hospital with a broken leg. The children are back gathering more eggs.

Stubborn Coughs
Stop Quick With Home Made Cough Mixture
USE PARMINT

Not until you make your own cough mixture—a half-pint of it for a small sum—will you know how easy it is to stop any bad persistent cough as if by magic.

It's pleasant-tasting, but that don't stop it from knocking out a cough quicker than anything else in the world. Children love it.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one-half pint—that's all there is to it.

This loosens the phlegm, stops the irritation, allays the inflammation, clears out clogged nostrils, makes breathing easier, and causes sore throat and hoarseness to disappear.

With speed almost beyond belief this home made mixture will stop the toughest hang-on cough, and all because in it there is a substance (too costly for ordinary cough syrups) that immediately covers the membrane like a soothing, healing poultice and blessed relief comes at once.

And it is always worth while to bear in mind that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

W. H. HILL'S LIFE WORK

Colds cause more illness than any other human ailment. Realizing this 50 years ago, W. H. Hill determined to develop a quick-acting scientifically correct cold and la grippe remedy.

Years of research brought success. Mr. Hill discovered a most remarkable formula. He backed it with energy, faith, integrity and a name that meant "satisfaction or money back."

Today more than 4,000,000 families—one-fifth of America's population—use and recommend Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine.

The formula has never been changed in a quarter century. What Hill's has done for millions, it can do for you. Demand red box bearing Mr. Hill's portrait. All druggists, 30 cents.

COOLIDGE IS SNAPPED AS MOVIE 'STAR'

Washington, Nov. 21 (I.N.S.)—Calvin Coolidge, motion picture actor—

The President today faced the cameras eye and the director's megaphone. His debut in screenland with the time-honored two-reeler.

The "angel" backing his initial production was Henry Ford, automobile magnate and potential opponent in the coming election.

The Ford vehicle, starring President Coolidge, is a two-reel picture to be distributed throughout the country for educational purposes under the auspices of the Highway Education Board, an organization dedicated to the furtherance of national highway construction. To enhance its appeal, a story—hero and all—has been worked into the production.

The picture tells of the experience of a country boy who wins a scholarship contest and is brought to Washington where the President confers the prize.

After four years in college, the boy returns home and devotes his life to making his own section of the country a "finer and better place to live in."

2 INJURED AT $100,000 FIRE IN AMHERST

Amherst, Nov. 21.—Damage estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000 was done to the Albert Block in Main street early today by a fire that forced a dozen occupants to flee in their night clothing.

Flames sweeping up the stairway from the third to the fourth stories cut off the escape of two young men, who were forced to leap to the roof of the adjoining Lincoln block. One, John Beacon, was considerably injured. The other, Alec Lucas, was slightly hurt.

Mrs. Howard Aiken and her two small children were rescued with difficulty from their rooms on the third floor.

They owes their lives to the heroism displayed by Miss Rose Parent, who gave them warning and who saved nothing of her own effects except the clothing she wore.

The women and children were taken out by Patrolmen E. F. O'Brien and Mathew Raymond. Chief Melrose Pope summoned assistance from Nothampton.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

A Delightful Romance with an Unusual Heroine

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

Patricia (Marion Davies) finishes her plea to the council

THE STORY SO FAR

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. It has a successful trial trip and Pat saves the boat from falling into Schuyler's hands by a bluff. Larry backs Bully Boy Brewster in a prize fight. Pat sneaks into the firehouse, but the constable orders her out. The fight is stopped by a fire alarm, rung in by Pat. The mob gets after her. The Terror starts to horse whip her when she cries out that she is a girl.

"Little Old New York," from the Broadway Success of That Name, by Rida Johnson Young, Has Been Created Into a Superlative Motion Picture by Cosmopolitan Productions—Direction of Sidney Olcott—Adapted by Luther Reed.

"WELL, then," said Pat, "you must be thinkin' of me as a bit girl in Ireland, livin' with my father and my younger brother Patrick. Poor we were—poor as none of you can ever know people can be and still be decent. And all the time there was my uncle that had come here with the money my father had given him and grown rich—and us living on what scraps we could.

"And then he died, as you know well and by change of heart he had it in his mind to right the wrong he'd done his only brother and his closest kin. So it was he left his money to my brother —but ruled that within the year he must be here to claim it.

"I mind the day that Mr. Astor's lawyer found us—just when we were doin' put out of our cottage. My father was like a wild man—my brother had his death upon him then. But there was no time to nurse him—with the money there was then to be. We could have been made well had we had months instead of the bare weeks to bring him here to claim what was his.

"So, sick as he was, we made our way to London with the lawyer and took ship and started for America, and the terrible rough voyage it was! The very sailors said they'd never seen the like, nor known a ship to live through such storms as came upon us. And all the time my brother Patrick grew worse and worse—until, at long last, while we were still upon the sea, he died."

She paused; there were tears in her eyes, and living squeezed Larry's arm in sympathy.

"So there we were," Pat went on, "my father and myself, bound for a strange land, where we had neither friends nor kin. And in my father's sight his brother's money, that his brother could never have made without the help that he had lent him, was marked to go to one of them that had turned my uncle from his own."

She turned to look at Larry.

"You'll remember that he was not knowing Mr. Larry then," she said, "and of him he thought as one of the Delevans that had made his brother forget his duty. 'Disowning' he called him and 'mean,' and all manner of things besides—and thought he spoke the truth. And in his wildness the father of lies put this into his mind—that I should put on my little brother's clothes and I we pretend that it was I, not Pat, that had died.

"I thought nothin' of it at that time sure, and what was I, a girl like me, to be thinking of, going against my own father? But—when we came—I was afraid. That very night I begged him not to make me go on. But when I saw the way that it made him, me opposing him and crossing him, I was silent for very shame.

"I was alone with him when he died Reilley knows that"

She looked about for Reilley and looked at him appealingly and Reilley rose and bowed.

"She speaks the truth there, gentlemen. The late Mr. O'Day ordered me from his room, and I understood that he had something to say before he died not for my ears."

Astor nodded.

"That you were influenced to pursue your course is known and has been taken into account already," he said. "You may not realize how greatly that fact has tempered the judgment of the Council.

"It is God help the poor devil for whom there isn't find any extenuation" said Larry bitterly under his breath. Astor and one or two of the others looked at him sharply, but nothing was said to him.

"He made me swear while I held his dying hand" said Pat "He made me take an oath that I would keep on as I had begun What could I do after that? Would you have had me false—and had him come back to haunt me? He died in peace for what I did that I knew was wrong—if I'm to go to prison for that, then I must go!"

She looked desperately from one to another of her judges. In none of the eyes that were fixed upon her was there a trace of pity. These men were stern, implacable. Property had become their God—and here was one who had offended as not that God.

"Can you not see?" cried Pat. "He was mad—my father that I loved—that had cared for me and tended me all my life! Mad—driven into madness by misfortune and sorrow! He had seen my mother die for lack of the things she should have had. And now, with peace and ease and fortune in our grasp—everything was lost again.

"And he had seen his only son die—who would be living now but for the cruel will his uncle made. Is it so great a wonder that my father was beside himself? He was a good man—as good a man as any of you! In his right senses he would never have thought of doing a thing against the law to do. But do you know, any of you, that he had been tempted—as he was you would have to succumb than he?"

"This is all beside the point," said a bystander, interrupting Pat. "I cannot see gentlemen that the prisoner is entitled to any information to that which we already possess concerning the case."

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

"Well—I'll be fingered—you are a thoroughbred!" gasped Mrs. MacAvoy, and she got up to follow me as I resolutely led the way back to the house.

Virginia was just entering the gate as we came around to the front of the place. She met Mrs. MacAvoy with cold composure, inquired for Jim eagerly, but accepted the doctor's verdict that we'd better not startle Jim by letting him realize we'd been called on his account.

"Then if you'll pack, I'll wait and take you to town, Ann," said Virginia to me as serenely as if only yesterday she hadn't driven we to desperation out of Dreamland.

I agreed with a poise I felt equal to hers and did my packing at great speed. Then, making the best of the fact that for Jim's sake I must go without seeing him, I said farewell to the MacAvoys and prepared to let Virginia convey me away.

As we started toward the door a tall, rangy figure, hatted and coated for travel, came to the door of the cottage. It was Ruth Gregory. She looked from Virginia to me uncertainly.

"I wonder if I can beg a lift to town," she asked.

Virginia and I were both frozen into immobility by Ruth Gregory's sudden appearance and abrupt request to be given a lift to town. But after a second I managed to recover myself and to perform the social amenities which evidently cost for little with the strange hostess who had up to now lectured me and my enforced stay under her roof.

"Good morning, Miss Gregory," I said. "This is Mrs. Dalton, my husband's sister, who has come to drive me up to town. I'm sure you can count on her to take care of you also."

"This is Jeanie, isn't it?" asked Miss Gregory, holding out her hand with a boyish grin. "Room for any one in your car?"

"We'll be glad to have you with us," answered Virginia with a cordiality I couldn't help resenting.

She stood aside to let Miss Gregory enter her car. In that moment a taxi turned in at the gateway and whirled up toward the porch. The moment it came to a stop out got a little figure, hatted vividly in red and carrying a lot of jangling gold bracelets. It was Rosa Cordova.

Teetering up the path on her high heels, Rosa turned an imploring face up to us on the steps. But her voice was solemn with concern as she cried:

"Buenas dias, everybody, I am here. It is me Rosa Cordova. I am come to see how it is with my poor Jaime. When the good Pat, he telephone me to the office, I put on the hat and make at once the journey to my poor partner. That is how much I am devote to my friends."

SECRETS OF HEALTH

HAVE YOU A FAD?

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.

IF you haven't a fad, find one and cultivate it.

A fad is something aside from your occupation, an avocation in which you have cultivated and maintained an interest.

Dr. Reed.

A fad to be a real fad ought to be along the lines of your natural tastes or inclinations.

It ought also to be something that you can afford in both time and money.

If it is not, it will only make worse one of the conditions for the relief of which you cultivate the fad, and that is worry.

Did you draw immeasurably well when you were a boy or a girl, as the case may be? Have you laid it aside under the stress of occupation? Then take it up again, get out of doors, if possible, away from the city, and make sketches.

Can you, both of you, man and wife, afford golf? Then by all means cultivate this wholesomest of sports.

Then, if you can afford it, go in for collecting something that will appeal to your artistic or literary or utilitarian sense.

I knew a man who, after having acquired wealth in the management of large affairs, returned to enjoy his earnings in maintaining among other things, a Summer home and yachts by which he entertained his friends.

"It's nice," said he, "but not satisfying—no, not satisfying. A man must do something that is really useful. I sometimes feel as if I must start a little manufacturing business the output of which will be really useful to somebody and the sales from which will run it."

In the meantime, just as a fad, just to be useful to somebody, he purchased a lot of buoys and used his yacht for placing them on the previously unmarked shoals that the navigation might be made safer not only for his fellow yachtsmen but for commercial craft.

He had to have a fad to save him from the various consequences of unoccupation.

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen Joints

Rheumatic or Otherwise

Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who said to me one day after prescribing for a patient who had hundreds of his customers tried in vain to get rid of rheumatic pains, stiff, inflamed joints and swollen fingers. "I will tell you this same man who has a prescription could and would have commanded that would relieve stiff, swollen, tormented joints with just as much assurance as they ever did.

"But the prescription, plainly named Joint-Ease, after being tested in many obstinate cases through progressive stages by the millions of people who suffer from aching joints that proved unbearing up.

Swollen fingers, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right into the skin and flesh and gets right to and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember that Ease is for all ailments of the joints whether in ankle, knee, wrist, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

WHAT THE STARS SAY

Unlucky Day to Travel

THIS day's sidereal operations seem to make for turmoil and excitement. Mars is strong and Saturn is also adverse. Much harm may be done by an unruly or stubborn course of conduct, and quarrels and litigation may prove disastrous. The Saturn position calls attention to the health and also shows the necessity for self-discipline. Beware of long journeys.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Jad Salts at First Sign of Acid Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out, but they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or sore back hurts; if you suffer with sick headache, dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. Be all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are made of pine and syrups. The "syrup" is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, and tastes good.

You can feel it take right hold of a cough or cold. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes —and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

HARVARD PLANS SURPRISE FOR YALE ON THE GRIDIRON

BIG GAMES FOR GRID FANS

Harvard and Yale, Army and Navy, old foes for old championships, will battle again Saturday which is the East's great day in football, the climax of the grid season.

Yale has an opportunity to win its first Big Three title in seven years. The Army-Navy game is regarded as a toss up.

Despite the fact that all the experts predict a victory for the Blue against Harvard, a sturdy defence is being built by Coach Fisher and Ted Jones' team may find Harvard strategy too much for them.

Bob Folwell

The Army's hopes are built around Smythe, the quarterback whose work in the game against the Middies last November gave the Soldiers a 17 to 14 victory over the Sailors.

Smythe ran the team yesterday when work was continued until after dark, with arclights illuminating the field at West Point. Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame wizard, was expected at West Point to help the Army coaches today.

The Navy coaches are trying to determine upon their line-up. Bob Folwell's star ends are suffering from injuries and it is doubtful if they will be able to play. Stephen Barchet, whose work carried the Navy to glory in 1921, may be replaced in the backfield by Shapley, a 1923 substitute, who has developed into a great offensive player.

Stephen Barchet

Old Harvard men are issuing warnings to Yale admirers that it is best to be conservative in predicting what the Bulldog will do to the Crimson Saturday.

Tacks Hardwick warns Yale men not to mortgage their homes to wager on their team. Ed Hoppman, coach at Brown, whose eleven won from the Crimson last Saturday expressed the belief that Harvard could not be relegated to the background as a competitor for a winning score.

Tad Jones

Hugh Bezdek

"Chet" La Roche, former Yale star, says that Jones uses a little psychological stuff in keeping Neidlinger and Stevens, Yale backfield stars out of the game during the first half.

"Neidlinger and Stevens are high strung boys," he said. "Jones keeps them on the bench until they are most ready to throw him off the field unless he sends them into the game.

"They slide up and down the bench during the first half, developing a store of nervous energy and then when they get into the game they tear things sideways and crooked."

Century Asserts it Will Be a Fine Afternoon

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 21.—"There is an interesting story going the rounds here that Saturday afternoon will be an interesting period.

Rumor has it that the intention of one of the Crimson eleven who will play opposite "Century" Milstead to "get him" percolated to New Haven.

When Milstead was informed of the intention he smiled broadly, courteously and confidentially, and in the most elegant of tones remarked, "Well, it will be an interesting afternoon then, won't it?"

While it generally doesn't appear in print that the Harvard-Yale match is anything other than a classic, the students here feel that Saturday's pow-pow will be as sweet a slugging fest as the two teams have staged in generations.

SIKI GETS BAD BEATING BY NORFOLK

New York, Nov. 21.—Battling Siki, the wildman from Senegal, was tamed at the close of a fifteen-round fight with Willie Ward of Baltimore, commonly known as the Norfolk Kid, at Madison Square Garden.

Battling Siki, who also has a regular name, which is Louis Phal, got a bad beating and lost the decision, along with a good deal of blood. The fight was said to be for the colored light heavyweight of the world.

When the opening bell rang for the first round, Siki bounced out of his corner like a big black cat, and ran at Norfolk and flailed away with both hands. Norfolk crouched and Siki went in close. Then Norfolk belted Siki in the left side with a right hand chop.

Throughout the rest of the round that was the American negro's best punch, and it bothered Siki. He crouched, and bit at Norfolk with a sort of left chop, and brought his hand down like a hammer, instead of punching straight. Norfolk clipped Siki once on the chin, and Siki staggered slightly, then smiled, and went on again.

Norfolk held the lead throughout the fight and while Siki showed great ability to take punishment, his American debut was not impressive.

BURNBROOK DEFEATS GALFUND IN TWELVE

New York, Nov. 21.—Eddie Burnbrook of Camp Holabird, Md., army welterweight champion, gained the decision over Harry Galfund of Brooklyn in a 12-round bout, semi-final to the Siki-Norfolk match at Madison Square Garden.

Burnbrook, who entered the ring with a record of 45 knockouts in 54 fights, tried hard to flatten Galfund, but the latter's defensive tactics saved him, although he absorbed terrific punishment.

BREED JUNIOR HIGH TO PLAY MEDFORD

McGraw System to Put the Braves in the Running

New York, Nov. 21.—Before leaving for his home in Superior, Wisconsin, Dave Bancroft, now manager of the Boston Braves, declared that he would follow the McGraw system of directing the entire attack in his handling of the team next season.

Dave Bancroft

"It is the only system," Bancroft said. "It is up to the manager to pick his move and the time for the move and take full responsibility for that action. I intend to direct the batting."

Bancroft added that he was in the market for a hard-hitting infielder and would go to the Chicago meeting in the hope of putting through several deals.

Army and Navy Captains Rival N. Y. Schoolboys

New York, Nov. 21.—Rival field leaders of the Army and Navy elevens, which battle next Saturday in their annual classic at the Polo Grounds, both are products of New York scholastic gridiron ranks.

Capt. Carney

Dennis J. Mulligan, captain of the West Pointers, gained fame on Gotham High School gridirons before he became a Cadet, while A. G. Carney, Navy captain, likewise starred as a schoolboy player. Mulligan plays right tackle and Carney left tackle, so that they will be on opposing wings when the rival service elevens take the field.

LOUIS BOGASH WILL FIGHT "PARSON" REED

Louis Bogash of Bridgeport and Pat Reed, the "fighting parson," who gave former Champion Johnny Wilson a real battle last week, are matched to clash at Mechanics Building, November 30.

Reed is now fighting better than ever as he demonstrated against Wilson.

Reed always has been a satisfactory performer. This will not be his first meeting with Bogash, but he will make a supreme effort to wrest victory.

Bogash has been a jinx to Reed.

TERRIFIC RUSH FOR HARVARD TICKETS

The annual rush is on.
The scramble for Harvard-Yale

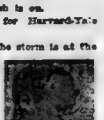
In less than eight hours nearly 2000 graduates and undergraduates toiled their way it to the tiny office scarcely fifteen feet long and six feet deep, and fought their way to the precious pasteboards allotted to them.



Bob Fisher

Throughout the day a long line of applicants stretched from the door of the H. A. A. down Harvard street, and around the corner to Quincy street. Age won no respect in this long line.

The young freshman students, with faces as yet unscarred by contact with razors, battled for a position with old graduates whose whiskers would have won them veneration in any lodge.

WARD HAS SPEED OF A DIXON, HEAVY PUNCH OF A KETCHEL

BOUT WITH MALONE BIG TEST

By JACK CONWAY.

As handsome as a moving picture flash and as great a fighter as Stanley Ketchel was when he first burst upon the sporting horizon.

Ward, youthful, marvelous boxer, deadly puncher, is considered the uncrowned king of the welterweight division in his native State of New Jersey and in particular in Elizabeth, that bustling little town which you pass through on your way from New York to Atlantic City.

This is all the more remarkable when one remembers that Mickey Walker, whose terrific punching power enabled him to win the welterweight championship from Jack Britton, also comes from New Jersey. Furthermore Mickey's home town is Elizabeth. It is a strange coincident by which Walker and Ward, two of the foremost men in their boxing division, hail from the same small New Jersey town.

WARD HAS DEFEATED MICKEY WALKER TWICE.

You ask: Why do the friends and admirers of Walker and Ward consider George a better fighter than Mickey?

Here is the answer. These famous rivals have twice battled within the hemp ropes, while the calcium lights have flickered overhead and staunch admirers have cheered until they were hoarse. And on each occasion after the last stinging punch had shot through the air, the last mighty effort had been made to gain the victory, the last shout of encouragement given, Ward was proclaimed the victor.

The speed and skill of a George Dixon, the sharp, deadly punching of a Ketchel, enabled Ward to send his illustrious townsman down to defeat.

Unfortunately for Ward, those two thrilling matches, in which each youth gave all that it had in a fighting line, were staged before Walker wrested the welterweight crown from the aged brow of Jack Britton.

You now fire the following question at us: And hasn't Walker battled Ward since winning the welterweight championship, and, if not why?

We cannot get away from the hard, cruel facts. As champion, Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., has not met his fellow-townsman, George Ward, in a title conquest.

The reason? Possibly the result of his other two matches with Ward.

Walker has fought Steve Latzo, Pete Latzo, Johnny Griffith, Nate Siegal, Jimmy Jones and other fighters. He could have got three times as much money as he received out of any of these matches by taking on Ward. And our champions like money as well as most people except when they fear the proposed opponent may win. Then they will take less money to meet a man whom they have a better chance of defeating.

WARD HAS SCORED IN BOSTON RINGS.

Boston has been the scene of some of Ward's best battles. He has won two decisions over Eddie Shevlin in this city. He also conquered Dave Slade here last Winter, although not given the decision, to which he was entitled.

The fact that Ward is only twenty-three years of age and is getting better with each start is why he must be given such serious consideration. As a growing youth, he is putting on weight. He will soon be a full-fledged middleweight and prepared to emulate the most spectacular deeds of the immortal Ketchel.

Ward will make his first start against a middleweight of national prominence when he tackles Jock Malone whom many fans believe could defeat Johnny Wilson or Harry Greb.

WARD FAVORED BY WEIGHT FOR MATCH

Sam Golden, Ward's manager, pulled a master stroke in making this match. He got Nate Lewis Malone's pilot, to consent to the bout being fought at 153 pounds. This means Malone will have to reduce, while Ward will be able to enter the ring with all of his strength.

It is the ring classic of the year for Boston fans.

Naturally the greatest crowd to ever see an indoor show in Boston will attend the affair.

TARAMASCHI TO PROVE GREAT STRENGTH

Italian followers of the wrestling game are wondering just how good Angelo Taramaschi, the new Italian sensation, really is. He has promised to perform a feat next Monday afternoon that few wrestlers would care to tackle. In fact should he accomplish it he will be the only wrestler to ever perform such a feat. He will attempt by means of harness hitched to each arm to hold two automobiles pulling in opposite direction. Should he accomplish this the fans will readily see just why his arm locks and head locks tear a grappler to pieces on the mat.

In meeting George Walker the Canadian Panther at the Grand Opera House on Thursday Night, he will have no snap. Walker is one of the cleverest men in the game today.

STRIBLING HAS SCORED 34 KNOCKOUTS

White Lawrence "Young" Stribling, Macon eighteen-year-old

[illegible] Harry Ertle's two or three verdicts to the contrary notwithstanding, has been a very busy battler since he first took up the ring game.

Judging from the minds of many of the fight fans throughout America, Stribling is recognized as the world's champion. It was reported that Harry Ertle ruled a draw in Columbus, O., and then gave Stribling the decision only to change his mind again three hours later and declare the fight a draw.

In less than three years of professional fighting, the youthful Stribling has engaged in eighty-five battles. He won twenty-four by the knockout route, received forty three decisions, fought thirteen draws, lost three decisions and fought two no-decision bouts. The record is said to stand supreme and unchallenged in the annals of pugilism.

Stribling stands ready to take on the best in the game and is eager to meet McTigue again at any time or place," he declares.

The new finite sensation and his mother and father arrived in New York, where they remained over to see the Siki Kid Norfolk battle at Madison Square Garden. They were to arrive in Boston this afternoon and they will go straight to the Copley Square Hotel.

Come Along, Ye Sports!

THE SPORTS DEPARTMENT of the Boston American wishes to announce the opening of its annual campaign for raising money for the American's Helping Hand Christmas Fund.

We're starting early this year.

That is because the Sport Department hopes this year to break all its previous records.

It hopes to raise more money from the sport fraternity between now and Christmas than was ever raised by a single department of a newspaper for a charitable purpose.

You know the object of the American's Christmas Fund —to give a real Christmas to the poor children of the city.

This announcement is notice to you, gentlemen of the sport fraternity, that you may begin sending in your contributions NOW, without waiting for the usual call, just to give us a good start.

COME ON!

PRO GOLFERS BOOK TITLE TOURNEY

New York, Nov. 21.—The Pennsylvania Springs, Ind., Country Club has been chosen as the scene of the professional golf championship of America tourney next year, with the date exception ber 14 to 20 inclusive.

It was also decided to divide the qualifying test for the national open championship, one test for Eastern and the other test for Western golfers. It will be at thirty-six holes of medal play. The low forty will then shoot at the crown now worn by Bobby Jones.

The fields in the past few years have been so great and unwieldy as to handicap the players who had a real chance at the leading golfing title. Some without a chance at the crown entered the course and got in the way of the real shooters at Inwood last Summer. It required four days for the qualifying test, and form is so elusive in golf that a wad of two or three days sometimes tucks the edge off

BRITTON MAKES A POOR SHOWING AND LOSES

By JACK CONWAY

Cold, merciless, cruel Public:

Only fools seek your praise or become enthusiastic over your cheers.

Jack Britton

Jack Britton, former world's welterweight champion and one of the most brilliant boxers in the ring, probably realizes this today.

Britton, who for over a span of nineteen years only listened to the cheers of an admiring public, was booed and jeered as he went down to defeat before Frankie Schoell of Buffalo in a dismal ten round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building.

The Old Master has shot his bolt. His days of ring triumphs are over. He has lost the magic of his hands and feet which enabled him to vanquish some of the greatest fighters the ring has known.

Britton, like most boxers who have passed the crest of their fighting form, still thought he had one good fight left in his system. He had even hopes of securing another tussle with Mickey Walker, who won the championship from him a year ago.

Those thoughts perished as Britton tried to pull his old ring science and speed against Schoell, but couldn't. Father Time laughed down from the gallery at the desperate efforts of Britton. At last he had conquered Britton who had dodged his knockout wallop all these years.

Britton was merely a ghost of his former self, a mere mockery of the once mighty man who swept through the welterweight division much like the great naval dirigible that soared over Boston in majestic triumph.

CALLED ON REFEREE TO THROW HIM OUT.

The cold, cruel, merciless public called upon Referee Joe O'Connor to throw Britton out of the ring. They yelled to O'Connor to "save the old man." They booed him and hissed him and treated him with the same cold disrespect that it gives to a preliminary boy who fails to make good.

Schoell won. That's all. He didn't show any great amount of form. Any good second rate welterweight could have beaten Schoell.

Let Britton hang up his gloves. He was a ring king in his day. Let us not again have to listen to a fickle public hiss the Grand Old Master.

TOM JORDAN WON OVER MIKEY LANDERS IN EIGHTH

Sammy Marco of Montreal, fighting a brilliant battle, disposed of Jack Zarlico of Milwaukee. Marco is one of the most promising boxers to show here in many months.

Pat Moran and Johnny Glacken were the judges, while Ed Dixon did a good job as referee of the preliminaries.

Football by Electric Light at Lynn Tonight

The scrubs of the Tufts College football squad and the engineering students of the General Electric Company of Lynn, will play the first game of night football on the company's athletic field tonight under a floodlight which is said to be almost the same as the light of day.

It will be the first night football game, although coaches have taught signals at night by the use of the white-washed ghost ball.

The varsity of Johns Hopkins University made an attempt to play a regular game at night but the illumination was inadequate and the game was marred by the uncertainty of the players.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE CANNOT ATTEND GAME

Washington, Nov. 21.—President Coolidge has decided that he will be unable to attend the Army-Navy football game Saturday in New York.

Desire to complete work on his message to Congress by the middle of next week was said at the White House to be the prominent factor to bring about the decision.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

What is the business outlook for 1924?

That question is often asked. I, for one, have been delaying the responsibility of hazarding an answer.

I will say this, however:

The 1924 business outlook will be greatly improved if Congress adopts Secretary Mellon's plan for reducing income tax burdens.

• • •

No other proposal now before the country would do as much to help industry, business, enterprise of all kinds.

• • •

Reduced taxes would make possible reductions in many prices and consequently in the cost of living. This, in turn, would tend to lower wage costs. With what result?

America would be better able to compete in the markets of the world.

• • •

The lightening of the tax load on industry would have another extremely desirable effect:

It would help in bring down the cost of things our farmers have to buy.

• • •

By encouraging brainy business and financial leaders to launch new enterprises and extend existing enterprises, more demand for labor would be broadened.

Labor has been so well employed of this country for quite a while that this consideration may well be regarded as one of great moment.

Few things could be more important than providing full-time employment for all of our workers during 1924.

• • •

One other matter of far-reaching importance to business is involved:

Lower taxes, easier prices for manufactured goods and a decline in the cost of living would do more than anything else to check the clamor for unsound radical political candidates, thus mitigating one danger which has appeared to theatrical business and employment in the coming year.

• • •

Once it is established whether Congress will indorse or reject Mellon's comprehensive, lucid plan for lower taxes all along the line, one will feel more disposed to venture to forecast the course business and employment are likely to follow in 1924.

• • •

Meanwhile prudence suggests a close mouth.

Railroads Lead Prices Again Upward in a Lively New York Market

CARRIERS MAKE POINT OR MORE ADVANCES

Railroads led prices again upward in a strong New York stock market today with call money starting at 5 per cent. Numerous carriers showed point or better gains.

Jesse Livermore, in an optimistic statement on the market, said: "It has been very popular for several years for certain politicians to lay the blame for the country's misfortune on poor railroads. The railroad investor, like the wheat farmer, has had some severe losses. The only difference is that the farmer has been losing for three years and the rail investor for fifteen.

"Bears on the stock market and professional tipsters predict Congress will do something to the railroads. It seems to me, on the other hand, that Congress will do something for the railroads. It will do the very thing that E. H. Harriman most bitterly resented having tried to do in the days when rail stocks were favorites. Congress is going to do everything it can to help railroads to consolidate. Therefore, I believe in 1924 there will be a reorganization of confidence in United States railroads."

TENSE MOMENT IN "THE LOVE CHILD"

JANET BEECHER AND LEE BAKER

'LOVE CHILD' BRILLIANT MELODRAMA

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

THERE was a good deal of a Parisian twist to "The Love Child" at the Plymouth last evening, and while its frankness in dealing with human relations may cause the lifting of many a virtuous eyebrow, there was more than enough of good melodrama and better acting to keep the evening enjoyable for the sophisticated—if not exactly safe for children.

HIGH SEASONING.

Out of a very Frenchy dramatic frolic by Henri Battaile there was evolved an American story by Martin Brown that must have deeply impressed the elated playgoer who prefers his entertainment with high seasoning. For a night we drifted away from the bucolic sweetness that has glutted the theatre and revelled in the taint that comes only from the Continental stage, which is always so adroitly projected by A. E. Woods, whose ventures into the drama of loose living and highly flavored situations have drawn to him a full measure of attention from those who would purify the theatre at any cost.

In "The Love Child" there were people of outward refinement and apparent esteem who played with fire—and got well singed for their pleasure. They were expectantly in every department of human effort except where the marriage vow was concerned, and it required four acts of skillful maneuvering and brilliant dialogue to arrive at a point where it was safe to call in the clergy.

While "The Love Child" may not be carelessly recommended for young daughters and adolescent sons, there was no chance to evade the brilliancy of its presentation by Mr. Woods' talented players.

Characterizations such as Janet Beecher and Lee Baker gave to the play are rarely discovered in the current drama. Their artistry proved itself superior to the mere tone of the lives they portrayed.

Miss Beecher added new laurels to an already well filled artistic career and indulged in emotional flights that not only rang true but which held her audience in keen admiration.

The more or less straight away acting of Mr. Baker yielded its own charm to those who enjoy masculine strength in their plays. There was no blur of froth and fuse in that gentleman's performance.

Kenneth Thomson carried conviction as the nameless lad who saved his mother by affecting a rendezvous with the daughter of the man who proposed a abandon her in the moment of his own political triumph.

Whatever your taste in the matter of outspoken, sordid drama, "The Love Child" shines in its own way with well turned, crisp dialogue, one big situation, and with acting you are bound to enjoy. However, it may not be quite so good for young people.

'LOVE CHILD' WILL STICK MISS JENSEN TO MOVIES

Eulalie Jensen will not forsake motion pictures for the designing of gowns. She has just made that definite announcement to her friends after several weeks' consideration of a most tempting financial offer. It came to her from a famous New York modiste, after she had learned that Miss Jensen designs and supervises the making of all the costumes she wears in her screen roles.

Eulalie Jensen

Carmel Myers has become a most seductive vamp. As the result of her work in "The Famous Mrs. Fair," she was cast as the alluring Countess Fedora in "Slave of Desire" from Balzac's "The Magic Skin" and then as a gay divorcee in Rupert Hughes' new picture, which is still unnamed. Miss Myers tells her friends that she really enjoys screen vamping.

Carmel Myers

Mildred Davis likes her new job with Ben Wilson, with whom she has practically completed her first picture for Grand - Asher releases. Miss Davis was one of the first of prominent screen players to be selected for the initial co-ordination of this production company. While her picture has not yet been given a permanent title, it is known to be a comedy, and her leading man will be Carl McIver.

COHAN TO APPEAR HERE IN NEW SHOW

Just to be sure that there shall be nothing lacking to make the Cohan season in Boston complete, the comedian-author - composer - producer will, it is announced, come here in person to appear in his new play, "The Song and Dance Man." He will make his reappearance on a Boston stage Monday evening, December 3, at the Selwyn Theatre, replacing "Two Fellows and a Girl," "The Song and Dance Man" is described as an American dramatic comedy and was written by Mr. Cohan himself. It was originally written for another actor, who found the part not suited to his personality and on his retirement from the cast Cohan jumped into the role and has been playing it for the past several weeks.

Geo. M. Cohan

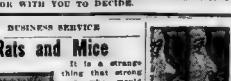
Rats and Mice



It is a strange thing that strong men who would face any danger have been known to turn tail and run away screaming when personally confronted with a mouse. While common among women, it is uncommon with men. Some people show a great fear of the touch of a mouse, but a rat, being larger in size than a mouse, do not seem to frighten people as much. It is most likely the feeling of the greatest fright of rats or mice is caused by the mind. The fear of the spread or the trend bubonic plague, which is carried through rats or mice which infest their homes.

This dread scourge has taken millions of lives and it is necessary to do something to be watched carefully to keep rats and mice from infesting our country.

As a matter of safety, every person should wage unrelenting warfare against them. This can be carried out successfully by the use of Martin's Powder. Martin's Powder for rats and mice. They offer the most effective means to destroy these pests. Sold by drug and department stores everywhere for 50c and $1.20 per can. 65c and $1.30 by mail. Send money order, check or cash with mail orders. Postage rates vary according to postal zones. Always specify the powder desired, as there are eleven Martin Powders, one for each pest of the household. All registered in U. S. Patent Office.

If a Man Threw MUD in Your Face You'd Fight

When He Coughs or Sneezes Deadly Disease Germs, WORSE Than Mud, in Your Face, You Say, "Poor Fellow, What a Cold He Has"

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

In ordinary loud conversation a man cursed with grippe can send the germs flying thirty feet in front of him as he talks.

If you listen to a public speaker and sit within thirty feet of him, you can catch whatever he may have. Let that console you for a back seat, sometimes.

When a man coughs or sneezes violently, he scatters microbes to a distance that only the microbes perhaps could estimate correctly.

It is certain that the poor fellow, ill-bred and reckless, who with face uncovered coughs or sneezes in a street car or other public place risks infecting with his cold and any other complaint lodged in his mucous membrane as many human beings as there are near him.

We have laws now that arrest and punish a man for spitting in public, which is a beginning of decency.

But remember that the man who coughs and sneezes with his face uncovered does more harm even than the other ill-bred savage who spits upon the floor.

Sneezing and coughing, as we had the honor to explain the other day, are processes by which nature kills germs and ejects them from the system.

Sneezing is beneficial to the sneezer, and poisonous to those near him, when he lacks the decency to cover up his face.

The man constantly seen and heard in public places sneezing and coughing violently with his face uncovered and looking rather proud of himself because he can sneeze so ably, should be treated with contempt like any other yahoo.

We cannot, perhaps, arrest a man for coughing and sneezing with face uncovered—although we know that such conduct is ABSOLUTELY RESPONSIBLE FOR EPIDEMICS OF GRIPPE AND OF OTHER DISEASES.

But it is possible, through public contempt, to teach better manners.

When you see some ill-mannered ruffian filling a public vehicle with germs, sneezing ostentatiously and openly as though it were a highly moral act, take out your own handkerchief and hold it before your face as a gentle hint. When he finishes his performance, hold your handkerchief close to the floor and shake it out gently, as much as to say, "I am trying to get rid of the disease germs which that hyena has been scattering so generously."

One thing that the ill-bred ruffian cannot stand is to have someone suggest that he IS ill-bred.

Women have almost stopped tobacco chewing in semi-civilized sections of this country by glaring at the chewing, spitting ruffians. We could in the same way discourage criminal spreading of disease germs as above.

We might hang small paper handkerchiefs in the cars with a sign, "Please take one and use it for coughing and sneezing, if you can't afford a handkerchief of your own." That would help.

But public contempt would do more than all.

Mankind can stamp out the invisible disease germs as monstrous animals have been stamped out. And the wiping out of disease requires only common sense, decency and consideration for others. Make your children especially understand this. The next generation should do the work that this generation neglects.

Dog Eat Dog

Hi-Jacker Kills Bootlegger

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

In Nature, as you know, one dangerous creature has other more dangerous creatures for its enemies. Hatred between the two kinds protects MAN.

For instance, the scale that destroys fruit trees is attacked and destroyed by the lady bug.

When locusts and other pests become too thick microscopic enemies attack them and they vanish.

The "hi-jackers" are desperate bandits that prey on the bootleggers, illegal sellers of whiskey.

The "hi-jacker" lies in wait for the bootlegger, holds him up, steals the money that he got for his whiskey or the whiskey that he has not yet sold.

Here and there along our Canadian border detectives find occasionally a couple of bodies, one a "hi-jacker," one a bootlegger.

The detectives, looking at the bodies, say: "Here's a couple more that have fought it out."

The public, looking at them, says: "Peace to you both." They represent the wisdom of Providence, which destroys evil with evil and strengthens the good with virtue.

Bootleggers prove in their methods that one kind of crime leads naturally to another. For the sake of economy and to avoid answering awkward questions, they get the water and electricity they need by tapping city mains and electric wires, stealing both water and current.

In one small city, Bayonne, N. J., Mayor Talbot, when women complain that their husbands spend their money on bootleg liquor, organizes a raiding party and in a short time arrests fifteen bootleggers, destroys four whiskey stills, confiscates many barrels and bottles of whiskey.

Bootlegging is getting to be a well-organized industry and many hundreds of millions are poured into it.

A Gun to Interest Napoleon

He Would Have Liked It

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

This news will interest England.

The French are practicing with their new super-cannon, firing out to sea 180 miles. They had to strengthen bridges along railroads to cart the big gun.

It isn't needed in Germany, all the teeth having been pulled out of that country. So the big gun will be set up on the English Channel.

Now at whom, at whose ships do you suppose that big gun could be aimed?

It would interest Napoleon to know that his adopted land, France, builds a cannon powerful enough to fire a shell across the English Channel and a good many miles into England—he who marched up and down on the edge of the water and could find no way of getting across to England.

THE city rightly tries to keep families together. Yet nearly every instance of this hardship which taxpayers relieve would be unnecessary if men when they marry would be as proud of having their lives insured as they are of the figure they cut in their wedding clothes.

Because, thank heavens, most folks are cheerful and often care-free, the wonder is not that so many people are indifferent to the sudden taking off, but that so many are wise enough to make provision for it.

Hubby's the Victim

Editor Boston American:

Excuse me if I seem to be boisterous in my laughter, but I haven't read anything funnier than the announcement that Vassar is to have a home for tired wives. Wives who tire of dishes and the broom have only to hie to Vassar, where commodious quarters await them while they enjoy a good breathing spell. But how about poor husband? He boards at some one-armed joint, shifts for himself during this enforced vacation and then is calmly notified he must pay all expenses of said wife while she recuperates. What's that I hear so much recently about justice?

Dangerous Sentiment

Editor Boston American:

Although Americans are supposed to be a hard-headed, practical race, they are unthinkingly sentimental over grave questions, often to their own national disadvantage. Immigration is one of the foremost issues of the day, and no sentiment should interfere with the making of laws governing it. The future of our Republic depends on an enlightened, patriotic citizenship.

Needs an Overcoat

Editor Helping Hand:

I am very much in need of help. I have a husband and two children, a boy, six, and a girl, three. My husband has been out of work with sickness and a bad cough, and my little girl has congestion of the lungs and is very sick. If I could only get some clothing for us, I would be very much encouraged. My husband has only a sweater to put on when he goes out, and if someone had an overcoat, size 38, for him, he would be much better off. I am small and wear size 16 in clothes.

MRS. C. L. H.

For Girl of Four

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of some mother with a girl about four years, as I have some things for her.

MRS. J. M. B.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. M. E., who will be very glad to get this clothing for her four-year-old girl.

In Need of Work

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please find me a position where I can take my baby with me? I am a deserted wife and mother. My son is nine months old, and unless I find something to do, or some place to go to, I don't know what will become of us. I am 23 years old.

MRS. D. H.

Desperately in Need

Edito. Helping Hand:

My husband has never had large wages, only just enough to keep the house, and last Spring he was not able to work because of rheumatism, and now his feet are crippled by it. As a result we are both desperately in need of clothing. My husband is tall and takes size 44, and I take size 38 and a 4½ shoe. I have to help take care of my aged father and mother, so I can't earn anything myself.

MRS. L. M. P.

Crib to Give

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a white iron crib Mrs. M. E. W. can have for her baby. If you will send her address, I will take it by auto if not too far.

MRS. J. G. 2.

Thank you. Mrs. M. E. W. has been supplied with a crib, so we have sent you the address of Mrs. C. H. H., who needs a crib. Also many thanks for your offer to take it to her home.

Offers Baby Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a baby carriage in good condition that I would like some worthy mother to have for her blessed little mite that maybe now lacks the sunshine and fresh air for want of a carriage. What wonderful work the Helping Hand has done and is doing for those less fortunate! Keep up the good work, and God's blessing is sure to be with it.

MRS. A. A. S.

Thank you for the offer and also for the praise which we think you deserve more yourself. Baby carriages always help a lot, and you have been sent the address of Mrs. W. F., who is in need of one.

Shoes and Books

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there a girl about fourteen or fifteen years old who could wear size 4½ shoes. I have two pairs and would send them to whoever wished them. Also I have some boy's books if any boy has asked for some. I could also send a girl a dress and a princess slip.

G. A.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of M. A. T., who will be grateful for the shoes and dress, and of F. G., who would like the books.

Old Lady Wants Stove

Editor Helping Hand:

I am sending you the address of an old lady. She is deaf and one of her legs is in bad shape, although she can limp around. She is very poor, and would be very grateful to some reader of the Helping Hand for a small stove. Her means are so small that she cannot afford to buy one. She lives alone.

"THERE WAS AN OLD WOMAN WHO LIVED IN A SHOE"

By Herbert Kaufman

COMPARISONS make the heart grow fonder of America. All the other important powers have become colonial dependencies unable to subsist upon domestic yields.

Great Britain is a larderless, old woman, supported by overseas offsprings, while she desperately attempts to maintain an oversized family in a little cramped shoe.

Canada, Australia, South Africa, India and Oriental patches of empire do their best to provide for the home establishment, but despite their flocks, granaries, plantations and forests, haven't yet set up the efficiencies to render King Georgeland self-sufficient.

Midland looms would close down without access to our cotton fields. The dominion can't send a tittle of Manchester's or Sheffield's iron requirements, nor can the herds of Hackinghouse or Alberta, Manitoba or Saskatchewan expert adequate beef tonnage to British butcher blocks.

A Double Declaration of Independence

Algiers is the French truck garden, but Indo-China, Madagascar and Togoland are too far removed from consumption areas—dress stuffs for the exquisite prints and fine lawns, so dear to Parisian modes, must be found under the Stars and Stripes.

When Europe plans war, her power-makers draw upon the United States for cellulose. When she extends railways or sets a boot factory or constructs a skyscraper, America's oftenest sells the locomotive, machinery and steel girders.

Isolate this country for ten years from the rest of civilization and whole races would hunger while their main enterprises ran on half time.

The Liberty Bell proclaimed agricultural as well as industrial independence for the United States. We can close gates tomorrow, close ports and exist indefinitely within our own four borders.

Yes, We Have No Rubber, Jute or Tea

We have no jute or sisal, but we possess alternative fibers, there's no coffee or tea hereabouts, but neither brain or brawn output would notice their absence.

China, Japan and Italy export a considerable amount of silk thitherward, but chemistry has found sawmill refuse full of synthetic cocoons.

They'd have us on rubber, not a drop of caoutchouc is in our fauna. Henry Ford and department of experimenters, however, suspect that milkweed contains the essential elements for tires and mackintoshes and who dares say that the ingredients aren't lurking in abattoir tankage or concealed in coal tar and petroleum.

We've always grown long headed when we've gone short handed. The hour of extremity invariably finds man and method to bridle the gap.

Where Trees Go Soil Follows

But America won't hold her enviable position longer than larders and manufacturing bases are intelligently exploited.

Hitherto natural profusions have saved us from the bumps and stumbles invited by reckless and extravagant drafts upon fundamental wealths.

Past greed and stupidity have already slain the golden geese on one side of the Mississippi. New England, Central and Middle States are practically exhausted on original riches. With timber gone and no roots to hold soils in place, barren areas are succeeding former fertilities. A hundred thousand farms between the Penobscot and the Missouri would be utterly sterile by now except for artificial fertilizers.

Diminishing clay and gravel beds send brick and road foundations sky-hooting.

Let's profit by the costly experience and deal more shrewdly with the golden goose pastures of the Northwest and the Pacific.

Heaven help tomorrow if we blindly repeat the errors of preceding generations.

The Frown on Fortune's Brow

Time and universal dearths, the greater distances from foreign markets to the Antipodes, South America and Africa enables us to take prior advantage of prevalent opportunities abroad.

Our shops are built, our mills erected, our harbors ready, our traffic in shape—prepared to take orders on the lowest terms and ship them by the fastest routes.

The one frown on Fortune's brow is marked by the thought that we shan't retain the wherewithals to fulfill contracts.

Save the golden geese. Nourish them with capital—foster them with sage direction—devise means to utilize over-abundances for which congested, bare-cupboard centres are yearning.

Weave cloth where the sheep range. Make doors and trim furniture where the wood stands. Crush and bake cement in the heart of the mountains. Restrict living costs by reducing freight bills. Diversification and two-way hauls will do it.

So will cheap electricity.

There's twenty-six million horsepower in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana and less than 5 per cent. of it is on the job.

Relief for our worst social and business problems is contained in one hardly touched or tilled corner of the country.

Golden Goose Pastures

Immediate prosperity and enduring stability depend upon the judgment, the foresight, the canniness with which we manage Northwestern reserves.

Here's virgin ground for industry. Here's the task to test pace-setters.

Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma reflect what a few thinkers and doers have achieved in mere decades.

Consider Seattle. In 1885 a huddle of false-fronts—4,000 lumbermen, lumberjacks and pioneer merchants—one dock, no railroads and no trade. Look at her in 1923; 350,000 population—sixty piers, including the largest in the world—190 miles of sound and lake waterfront connected by locks that take 760-foot vessels (thus permitting access to fresh water so that docking isn't necessary to scrape hulls of sea growths)—101 acres of wharves and spur track for 2,939 cars.

Room for a hundred such golden goose eggs when balance sheets and determination choose to hatch them.

The Secrets a Spade Revealed About King Solomon's Millions

Dramatic Discovery of His "City of the Dead," in Spain Instead of Africa, Certifies the Biblical Account of the Mighty Monarch's Glittering Career.

"The Queen of Sheba carried with her gifts of rare beauty and costliness."

—From the Celebrated Painting by Julius Kronberg.

Golden Ornaments Exhumed by the Archeological Excavators at Tarshish, Site of King Solomon's Mines, Once Rich in Such Rarities.

ONE of the most cryptic mysteries of all time—the shrouded secret of King Solomon's mines, the source of his enormous wealth—has just been revealed by the archeologist's spade!

It literally "turned up" the mines, after hundreds of years spent by scientists in vain argument and speculation. But it did not unearth them in the locality most popularly associated with them!

The site of the mines, it is now known, is not in Africa, as had been long supposed, but in Southern Spain, near Gibraltar, in the valley of the Guadalquivir River. This romantic stream is still rich in deposits of precious metals. From the mines, themselves, the last puny vestiges of Solomon's golden splendor are now being withdrawn.

But the archeologists who undertook the arduous job of locating and excavating the mines were inspired, not by cupidity, but purely by a passionate scientific persistence. They wanted to find, instead of monetary richness, pottery, urns and other relics of Solomon's vanished grandeur. And they were not disappointed!

While digging in the ancient district called by the Romans Tarsessus, they discovered, to their delight, a Phoenician necropolis (or "city of the dead"). Certain inscriptions, coming thus to light, identify the place as the same one described in the Bible under the name of Tarshish—and hence a great flood of corroborative light has been shed upon the whole Old Testament account of the dreaded monarch's power and opulence.

Two fragmentary inscriptions, one on pottery and the other on a broken piece of stone, were the chief trophies of the excavations. They indicate that the colony of Tarshish was engaged in exporting precious metals, by ship, into both Judea and Egypt.

Mortuary urns, sarcophagi and other relics definitely place the date of the inscriptions at 1,000 B. C., the period when Solomon ruled at Jerusalem, Israel being then at the crest of its worldly might. A number of gold and silver objects—plates, bracelets and head ornaments—were included in the find.

To Bible students, as well as to the scientifically minded, all this is intensely interesting; for it reinforces the authenticity of the Old Testament story. The first Book of Kings tells how Solomon's navy, under Hiram, King of Tyre, came once every three years from Tarshish, "bringing gold and silver, ivory and apes and peacocks."

Jeremiah, the prophet, describes how "silver spread into plates" was sent to Solomon from Tarshish, and adds: "Tarshish was thy merchant by means of the multitude of all kinds of riches; with silver, iron, tin and lead they traded in thy fairs."

The revelation that this place actually existed and that it was one of the outposts of Solomon's empire is additionally vital because it tends to contradict certain famous modern writers. In recent historical criticism there has been a strong impetus to disparage and minimize Solomon's glow of glory and the extent of his rule.

For example, H. G. Wells, in "The Outline of History," tries to prove that the Biblical accounts of Solomon's importance are little more than poetic fables. He refers to the King's reign as that of "a brief little Hebrew kingdom," and compares the relations of Solomon with other monarchs of the time to "the relations of a Central African chief of today with a rich and powerful European trading concern."

Salomon Reinach, in his "Orpheus," a comparative history of religions, doubts also that Solomon was nearly as rich or powerful as the Bible declares. The ruler's influence, asserts Reinach, was restricted to a small localised territory not much larger than the Palestine of to-day.

The discoveries just made in Spain now seem to prove, on the contrary, that Solomon's ships, or those of his allies and tributaries, scoured the whole Mediterranean Sea, bringing him treasures from distant points, during his rule in about 1,000 B. C. His capital was Jerusalem, where he built a magnificent temple to Jehovah, and a gorgeous palace for himself.

The Scriptural records say that both buildings were overlaid with gold, elaborately decorated with statues of horses, lions, oxen and cherubim. In his stables were 40,000 stalls for the war-steeds that drew his chariot. He had seven hundred wives, of whom the first was the daughter of Pharaoh, and three hundred female slaves, who danced before his ivory-and-gold throne. In addition to being the most glitteringly appareled monarch of his time he was said to be the wisest.

When Balkis, Queen of Sheba, who had a prosperous kingdom of her own, heard of all these marvels, she, like certain modern critics, was inclined to murmur, "Exaggeration!" Consumed with woman-like curiosity, she decided to find out for herself, but, in case the stories happened to be true, she carried with her gifts of rare beauty and costliness.

She arrived "with a very great train, with camels that bare spices and very much gold and precious stones," expecting to create a sensational impression. But when she gazed upon the palace and temples and throne, and heard the sage speech of the King, "there was no more heart in her." She confessed herself surpassed with the remark, "It was a true report that I heard in my own land."

One of the main reasons why novelists and adventurers in quest of hidden treasures had always sought to locate the source of Solomon's wealth in Africa is that Balkis, laden with rarities, came from the South, in which direction the legendary mines of Ophir were supposed to lie.

Another reason is that the Biblical story which described the bringing of gold and silver from Tarshish also told how the ships transported ivory, apes and peacocks, all products of Africa. Their presence on the Tarshish boats can now be accounted for by the fact that Solomon's traders were Phoenicians; that Tarshish was a great trading centre and a rich mining district; that it was a very short distance across the sea from the African coast, and hence was a natural clearing point for picturesque beasts and treasures from the Dark Continent.

These Phoenicians were the mightiest traders of their epoch. Hiram, one of the principal allies of Solomon, was of their race. Sidon, mentioned in the Bible, was one of their cities, and Great Carthage, prior to Roman times, was a Phoenician colony.

But the Phoenicians were not only interesting as sailors and "traffickers in strange goods." They sprang from a racial base that, even to-day, is a matter for ethnological dispute. Some say that they were a race distinct from the Hebrews, although they spoke a Semitic tongue.

Part of an Ancient Tomb in "City of the Dead."

Others claim that the Phoenicians were of Hebrew origin.

But, whatever their beginnings, they were astute manufacturers and inventors, active from a very early date. Glass work of a beauty extraordinary in those times was made by them, and embroidery and the so-called "purple-dyeing" were turned out in large quantities.

Of Phoenician buildings, few remains now exist on their soil. Their architecture commenced with their widening and adaptation of caves in the rocks, as proved by the fact that independent buildings of later times, constructed of great blocks of unhewn stone, are direct imitations of such cave dwellings.

Great care was bestowed by the Phoenicians on their burial places, their cemeteries being the most important monuments left to us. Within were placed the relics of the dead person or persons—such articles as earthen pitchers, lamps, glass ware, tear bottles and gems constituting the contents.

The relics just unearthed in Spain are of Phoenician origin, dating back to the Solomonic era. So it is little wonder, with this corroborating evidence, that the archeologists were elated when the spade turned up such a fascinating and informative "city of the dead."

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

THERE'S an ambitious man in Buffalo who's making a good salary every week breaking in other people's shoes for them.

THERE'S no sense in suffering when you can pay him to grow your corns on his foot.

YOU can still have fallen arches, but they'll be in his name.

YOU hire a lawyer to take the troubles off your mind so why shouldn't you engage a pedestrian to take the aches off your feet.

THIS fellow's wife has such a large foot that she often helps him with his work. She wears one and he wears the other.

WHEN his wife is sick he can only break in in one shoe at a time. While his right foot is working, the left one is laying off.

OF course it won't be long before this fellow will have so much money that he'll employ guys to work for him. He'll give a postman fifty cents or a dollar for wearing some client's shoes.

HE figures that a postman has to walk and get sore feet anyway, and he might as well suffer in your oxfords as in his own.

THIS professional shoe-breaker makes a flat rate, but he ought to charge so much a pair.

THE only trouble in hiring a guy to wear your new shoes for you is that by the time he returns them, they're all out of shape.

AND in most cases they won't fit anybody else but him.

SO he gets your shoes and your money besides.

IF you suffer much with corns and callouses, the best thing to do is to throw your shoes away and strap a sofa cushion on each foot.

THERE MAY BE REASONS WHY YOUR HUSBAND DOES NOT ATTEND SOCIAL FUNCTIONS.

As a wife are you not often complaining because your husband does not care to attend the social functions of which you are so fond?

You often allude to the husband of some other woman as being so much more ideal as a companion because he is so often seen at social functions in company with his wife.

It may be that this "ideal" husband has an easier way of earning his living, or he may be better fixed financially.

He may not have to figure so closely on how to make both ends meet in domestic matters, and so has more time to be socially agreeable.

When a man is handicapped by weariness and his equilibrium is disturbed by working out plans that are hard to solve he does not make a cheerful companion at a "pink tea."

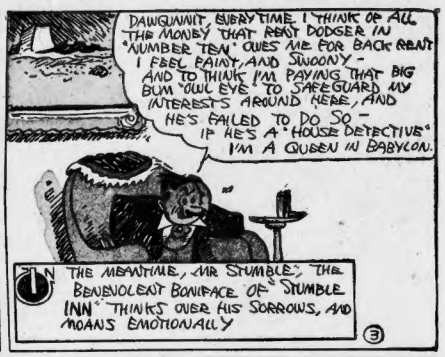
Stumble Inn



DAWGUMIT, EVERY TIME I THINK OF ALL THE MONEY THAT RENT DODGER IN "NUMBER TEN" OWES ME FOR BACK RENT I FEEL PAINT AND SWOONY - AND TO THINK I'M PAYING THAT BIG BUM "OWL EYE" TO SAFEGUARD MY INTERESTS AROUND HERE, AND HE'S FAILED TO DO SO - IF HE'S A "HOUSE DETECTIVE" I'M A QUEEN IN BABYLON.
IN THE MEANTIME, MR STUMBLE, THE BENEVOLENT BONIFACE OF "STUMBLE INN" THINKS OVER HIS SORROWS, AND MOANS EMOTIONALLY

AND MATE OUT I WON'T REWARD YOU - YOUR PAY ENVELOPE WILL LOOK LIKE THE NATIONAL TREASURY
